NEWS OF TWO STATES

Spokane Sentiment Against Baer, the Bloody Gambler.

AN EXITING SCENE IN COURT

Tacoma Contributes Another Grocery Failure to the Long List.

DEEP SNOW IN THE PALOUSE LAND

Wealthy Bachelor, Near Heppner, Found Dead, Perhaps Murdered—Union Railroad Depot in Seattle Contemplated

SPOKANE FALLS, Jan 15.—[Special Telegram.]—Perhaps the most remarkable scene ever witnessed in a court room in Washington was enacted in Justice Curry's court to-day. The occasion was the preliminary examination of Harry Baer, charged with the murder of McCrossin. Owing to the limited space of Justice Curry's court room the case was heard in the city hall. The large room was packed to suffocation and hundreds were turned away. District Attorney Redpath is in Washington. He left no one in charge of his duties, but the wave of public sentiment aroused by the Review's revelations has grown so overwhelming that upright-minded citizens have employed special counsel to appear for the people. They have retained the law firm of King & Cleigh.

Attorney Graves for the defense in his opening address made a vicious attack upon the Review for its course in searching out reputable eye witnesses to the tragedy and printing their statements so widely at variance with the whitewashing testimony developed at the coroner's inquest on which the surprising verdict of justifiable homicide was returned. An ominous silence greeted his remarks.

When Attorney King, for the prosecution, arose to reply a ringing cheer arose. The court ordered silence in the room. "Your honor," said Mr King, "the Review is not on trial here. This is a silly attempt to avoid the law and to create a side issue. We propose to show that a cold blooded murder has been committed upon a public street. An audacious attempt was made to drive away reputable witnesses and to prostitute the machinery of justice. The leading paper of this city has laid bare this foul conspiracy and has dared to do its duty. This effort to taint the high services of that journal is a disgrace to the gentleman attempting it."

The roar of approval that greeted these words was deafening. The great audience did not applaud with their hands or feet. Men yelled and howled until they were exhausted and hoarse.

The justice grew black in the face in his efforts to bring about order, but all to no purpose. At last the mighty demonstration wore itself out, and on motion of the defense a continuance was granted until Monday next. Lawyers who have practiced for a lifetime declare they never saw anything like the scene that was enacted here to-day. The case remains the ruling sensation. It is talked of on the street, in restaurant, at home, in offices—everywhere.

Baer has already employed the law firms of Turner, Foster & Turner, Houghton, Jones & Graves, J M Kinnaird and Griffitts, Moore & Feighan.

STILL ANOTHER TACOMA CRASH.

W. A. Perry, Grocer, Attached—One Failure Leads to Others.

TACOMA, Jan 15.—[Special Telegram.]—The grocery store of W A Perry at the corner of D and Ninth streets did not open its doors to-day. Inquiry developed the information that Jacob Ralph was in possession of the stock under a bill of sale executed about midnight of the night before. At the office of the city clerk it was learned that Mr Perry had given a chattel mortgage to the West Coast Fire and Marine Insurance Company, covering the entire stock of groceries and provisions, together with store furniture and fixtures. The note was dated January 15, 1890, drawn in favor of the West Coast Fire and Marine Insurance Company, and due the day after date, the amount being $600. So far the claims filed against Perry are as follows:

West Coast Fire and Marine Ins Co's bank	$ 600
Tacoma Grocery Co	1,1 7
Thompson, Hart & Co	78
Beaman Door & Lucas	60
Total	$2,9 7

Just what shape affairs will take is difficult to say. Mr Perry has been in business in Tacoma some two years or more. Friends of his express a hope that a reasonable compromise can be effected. There are other claims that would probably be filed, but inasmuch as Mr Ralph is in possession there is no chance to get hold of any property just now.

THE SAUL & AVERY FAILURE.

About the only new feature of interest that developed in the failure of W F Saul is the assignment to A A Knight by Mr Saul of a certain judgment recorded against M J Doherty of $402 25. Friends of Saul express the opinion that it was an unwise move to close Saul up. He was turning over every cent that he took in aside from the money absolutely needed in conducting the business, and the move would simply tend to shake public confidence and result in precipitating other failures where all that was needed was a little accommodation to tide over some temporary embarrassment.

In the superior court to-day two assignments were filed, one for the benefit of creditors by William H Avery and the other by William F Saul. The petition of William H Avery represented that he owed about $ [illegible], the greater part of which was due and about due. In the schedule of liabilities the total indebtedness footed up $ [illegible]. The following are the principal creditors:

Tacoma Grocery Company	$ 840 00
Bank of British Columbia	9 000
[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	1 60

The total assets were $ [illegible]. Judge [illegible] appointed [illegible] as provisional assignee.

The former partner of Avery, William F Saul, filed the larger schedule. The liabilities amounted to about $ [illegible]. Among them were:

J Weir & Hart	$ 3 9 62

[illegible]	9 11
Merchants National Bank	6 66

FOUND DEAD UNDER HIS TABLE.

Wealthy Pioneer of Morrow County Supposed to Have Been Murdered.

HEPPNER, Or, Jan 15.—[Special Telegram.]—The dead body of Charles Lynde, an old pioneer and a bachelor, was found lying under the table at his residence two miles below here, where he had been eating breakfast yesterday morning. The supposition is that he had been murdered for his money, everyone thinking he had a large amount stored in the house. The coroner's jury unanimously found that deceased came to his death from unknown causes.

Lynde had been a resident of Heppner country twenty-three years and had a great deal of stock and land. No money was found except $60 on his person and $60 in the house. He had been ailing for some time from heart disease.

NORTHERN PACIFIC AT SEATTLE.

A Great Union Depot—Competition With the Union Pacific.

SEATTLE, Jan 15.—[Special Telegram.]—Formal transfer of the Puget Sound Shore road to the Northern Pacific was consummated this forenoon. The deed was signed by I H Tyndale, president, and Ira A Nadeau, secretary, of the Puget Sound Shore road, and was delivered over to James McNaught, attorney for the Northern Pacific. The price to be paid is $1,000,000 in consolidated bonds of the Northern Pacific. Bonds amounting to $160,000,000 were recently issued by the Northern Pacific, covering all the property of the corporation, wherever situated, and the bonds given in payment for the Puget Sound Shore road are part of these bonds.

A union depot will probably be built by the Northern Pacific, Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern and Columbia & Puget Sound roads. The depot will be open to all railroads hereafter built and operated that desire to use it on a wheelage basis. Several sites have been discussed, but the one all are most favorably impressed with is in the central part of the city on the water front. The structure will probably cost about half a million dollars. On account of the unsettled condition of the title to water front property the erection of the building will be delayed somewhat.

Mr James McNaught, general counsel of company, to-day said: "I believe it will be the policy of the Northern Pacific to extend its wheat rates to all points in Eastern Oregon and Washington on the line of the O R & N Co and Union Pacific railways, and to haul wheat from all points on those lines to Puget sound for the same rate that applies on the company's own lines."

NEWS FROM WALLA WALLA.

Bonds for City Improvements—A Big Wind Drifting the Snow.

WALLA WALLA, Jan 15.—[Special Telegram.]—At last night's session of the city council preliminary steps were taken toward bonding the city in a sum sufficient to give a complete system of sewerage and probably purchase the present waterworks, a committee having been appointed to interview the owners thereof relative to sale to the city. The system of sewerage will be one of the best and will cost, it is thought, nearly $100,000. A bill has been forwarded to the legislature in behalf of bonding the city.

It is said that E C Ross of Prescott will be appointed register of the land office here.

Meyrelles, for a long time the capable master of the Second United States cavalry band, has asked on account of permanent disabilities that he be relieved soon. He will be succeeded by the leader of the Twenty-first infantry band.

A K Cutting, a short time ago raising trouble between Mexico and this country, is holding a case in a printing office here.

A forty five miles an hour chinook has been blowing all day, drifting the snow so badly that no trains went out or came in.

MANITOBA ROAD BOUND WEST.

The Gap Between Great Falls and Spokane Falls to Be Closed This Year.

SPOKANE FALLS, Jan 15.—[Special Telegram.]—The Review to-morrow will say:

The Review is in a position to state this morning that the Great Northern railroad will begin active operations immediately upon the opening of spring, pushing construction work between Spokane Falls and Great Falls with all the rapidity that men and money can develop. "Whatever route this transcontinental line may take," says our authority, "of one fact the people of Spokane Falls may rest assured: it will never stop until its cars are running into the city. Surveys are now being made to the westward of Great Falls, Mont., over three prospective routes. At present even the management of this company are unable to state which route will be chosen. They can only assert that it will be the most feasible. All depends upon the reports of the surveyors. Negotiations are now pending whose consummation may be expected within a month, by which the Montana Pacific route will be absorbed by the Great Northern. These developments, entirely authentic, are significant. They indicate that within a year Spokane Falls will have another transcontinental line, giving her additional connection with the East as well as with Puget sound. Millions of dollars will be expended in construction work in a country largely tributary to this city, and an imperial region will be developed."

PRAYING FOR A CHINOOK.

Palouse Snowdrifts Twenty Feet Deep—Cattle Will Suffer Soon.

COLFAX, Jan 15.—[Special Telegram.]—There has been a continuous fall of snow, with short intervals, throughout the Palouse country for the past three weeks. It reached its climax to-day in an additional storm, wind accompanying the snow and piling it up in many places in great drifts. As near as can be estimated about two feet of snow has now fallen, and if the storm continues this country will experience the severest winter for many years.

Drifts twenty feet in depth are reported. The mercury is a little below freezing, and consequently there is no suffering or difficulty in feeding stock, but cattle depending on the range will probably suffer if a Chinook is not forthcoming.

No More Big Fires in Seattle.

SEATTLE, Jan 15.—[Special Telegram.]—The Seattle Steam Heat and Power Company closed a contract to-day for the construction of a $60,000 plant to heat and furnish power for elevators for twenty-three of the largest brick buildings in the city. The system will be connected with the bay, so that in case of fire 100 streams of salt water can be turned on at once, which is seven times the amount the present water works can do in the district covered by the new system.

C. H. Hanford, of Seattle, to Be District Judge of Washington.

SENATORS OVERRULE HARRISON

Montana's Quartette of Senators Will All Be Sent Home for Better Credentials—Washington Mail Service Improved

WASHINGTON, Jan 15.—[OREGONIAN office, corner Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.]—It is expected that the nomination for federal judge in Washington will soon be made. After many long conferences Senators Allen and Squire have recommended Mr Hanford for the position. To-morrow is the last day of grace given the senators, and so they have just come under in time. It is possible, though not certain, that the nomination will be made to-morrow. The president has signified that his own preference was Judge Calkins, though the impression is that he will have no objection to the choice of the senators.

The senators and representatives are awaiting the arrival of the four men from Montana who claim to be senators from that state. It is not easy to get any official opinion as to the result when the two sets of senators arrive. The opinion prevails that none of the four will be given seats unless the senate decides to go over a full investigation of the case from the day the election was held in Silver Bow precinct. There is some ground to believe that this will not be done, but that all four will be sent home and the state be compelled to go unrepresented until proper credentials are submitted.

Congressman Wilson of Washington has been looking after the mail service in his state this week, and the postoffice department is gradually increasing the service. In answer to his appeals mail routes have been ordered from Seattle to Willapa, Wash., and return six times a week. Another route which is considered a very important one to a large section of country is from Oysterville and Worthington to Astoria, Or., six times a week, and another from Oysterville to Nasel, Wash., three times a week. The postoffice at Whatcom has been advanced to the presidential class, and Postmaster Jenkins, the present incumbent, has been reappointed to carry out the technicalities of the law.

Representative Hermann has been watching with a great deal of interest the debate on the Silcott defalcation which has occupied the house for the past two days. He wants to get hold of that $2800, which is the amount that Silcott took of his back salary.

In Senator Call's remarks yesterday he took occasion to cast some reflections upon the committee on public lands and the subcommittee which made investigations under the Call resolution. Senator Dolph, of Oregon, was a member of the sub-committee, and in a quiet way he sat down on the Florida senator. Mr Dolph had the record and documents ready to prove that Call was always talking against railroad and land swindles, yet at the same time he was not in favor of legislation to carry out his expressed desires. "When my people want anything of congress," said Senator Dolph, "I generally prepare a bill in accordance with what they want, and try and get it through congress and do my talking in support of that bill." Senator Mitchell also called down the Florida senator for some statements he made about Oregon and the public land.

The ways and means committee has decided to have no more public hearings after to-morrow, although interested parties may file written statements concerning industries which have not been ordered on Breckenridge's resolution calling upon the secretary of the treasury for a statement of Germany's tariff duties with an amendment including French, Austrian and other European tariffs.

In a communication sent to the senate to-day the third auditor of the treasury recommends that $925,000 be allowed the state of California for moneys expended in suppressing Indian hostilities prior to 1854. The state, the third auditor says, issued bonds for this purpose, and he recommends that the government take up the bonds and pay the interest. Payment of $38,000 on account of the Humboldt Indian expedition and of $4444 for expenses incurred in the Modoc war is also recommended.

The members of the house committee on rules were in session this morning. A note was received from Carlisle, stating that he was prevented from attending by indisposition. The members present resumed the consideration of the code of rules, and made some changes of minor importance, but did not dispose of the subject. Carlisle has signified his intention to vote with the speaker in favor of the proposition to create a special committee on the World's Fair. A majority of the committee on rules is thus secured, and a report will be made to the house as soon as an opportunity offers.

The house committee on coinage, weights and measures called upon Secretary Windom this morning and discussed informally the question of silver coinage. The secretary said he is preparing a bill embodying the features of the plan outlined in his annual report, which he expected to have ready for submission to congress Monday.

IN THE HOUSE.

Bill to Appropriate Money to Reimburse Silcott Sufferers Defeated.

WASHINGTON, Jan 15.—In the house, after a personal explanation by Hitt of Illinois as to his relation toward the oleomargarine tax, he having been charged by the National Butter and Egg Association with an attempt to get it revoked, the house resumed the consideration of the report of the special committee to investigate the Silcott defalcation.

Stewart of Vermont argued in favor of the majority report for an appropriation to reimburse members for their lost salaries. Oates of Alabama, Catchings of Mississippi and Payson of Illinois also supported the majority report.

Herbert favored Hemphill's proposition to refer the matter to the court of claims. [illegible] did not believe the house should disgrace itself by making an appropriation. Wilkins of Illinois moved reference of the whole matter to the judiciary committee for a judicial examination. The vote was then taken on the Henry bill bill as a substitute for the majority bill permitting members to sue in the court of claims. It was defeated—yeas 130 nays 133—and a motion to reconsider by Bland entered, who had voted in the negative, in order to enable him to make the motion. The motion was promptly tabled, however, and the vote recurred on ordering the majority bill appropriating $?5 000 to reimburse members for their lost salary to be engrossed and read a third time. This having been done Bland demanded the reading of the engrossed bill, but the speaker held that under general parliamentary law this was not necessary. A vote was then taken on the bill, and was defeated—yeas 128 nays 142—as follows:

IN THE SENATE

Turpie Insists That Free Brazil Should Be Recognized—An Oregon Park

WASHINGTON Jan 15—In the senate after some petitions had been presented, Sherman introduced a bill to provide for a permanent national bank circulation, referred.

Chandler offered a resolution, which was referred to the committee on contingent expenses, instructing the committee on immigration to investigate the various laws of the United States and of the several states relative to immigration, also to investigate the workings of the contracts made by the secretary of the treasury.

The senate then took up Morgan's resolution recognizing the United States of Brazil as a free independent and sovereign state.

Turpie said he had voted against reference of the resolution because he thought the delay occasioned by reference wholly unnecessary. He favored immediate recognition of the republic of Brazil. He was not one of those who entertained the opinion that congress was bound by the action or non action of the executive or of the state department about such a matter as the recognition of a new nationality, especially a new republic. Congress might co operate with these authorities. The position he said, of the administration toward the new republic of Brazil was one of strict neutrality and sublime indifference. There was not in the message of the president a word of sympathy or encouragement to the revolutionary movement. As to the president's suggestion of awaiting popular assent to the change of government in Brazil, Turpie said the revolution was not the first step, but the last step. There was always popular assent before. The flagrant and disgraceful assertion in the president's message that the revolutionary government in Brazil has been established without or against the assent of the people, disclosed the real attitude of the administration towards the new government. It approached very nearly a condition of covert hostility. It expressed a partly concealed but very apparent sneer at the sovereignty of the republic of Brazil. The time had come when the existence and authority of the republic of Brazil could be no longer controverted in words. It could be controverted only by war. The chairman of the committee on foreign relations (Sherman) had told the senate it should wait and inspect the new constitution of Brazil. The United States however was not concerned to know what were the particular provisions of that constitution.

The president of the United States had been long known as a republican, using the word in the larger and better sense, but Turpie feared that in this instance the president was a very much belated republican. In the case of Brazil even Mr Blaine seemed to limp and linger in the eyes of opportunity. He contrasted the delay with the recognition of the republic of France in 1848 by Mr Washburn at the instruction of President Grant. He said the delay in recognition had not been without a very serious misconstruction of the attitude of the United States government.

Hale moved that further action be postponed. The senate then took up the calendar and passed the following bills:

Granting to the state of Oregon ... 29 ... the Willamette ... for a public park.

Appropriating $ ... for the ... erection of buildings at Washington for a hall of records.

After an executive session the senate adjourned. The Russian extradition treaty was recommitted to the committee on foreign relations.

There was considerable discussion on the clause specifically setting forth that the murder of or attempt to murder the czar or any members of his family shall not be considered a political offense. Without this special definition the text of the treaty it was argued by some of the senators, placed criminal jeopardy on the same level and afforded them the same protection. It was not necessary or just they said to hamper the courts in the evidence by declaring for them that an attempt on the life of a member of the Russian royal family was not a political crime.

It is the impression that with the clause relating to the czar and family eliminated the treaty will be ratified by the senate.

Consideration of the nomination of Thomas Morgan to be Indian commissioner was postponed until next week.

NOMINATIONS

The president to-day sent to the senate the following nominations: Postmasters—Samuel Metzler, Wooster, Or; John H D ... Astoria, Or.; Elmer E. Rupert, Wardner, Idaho.

WALKER BLAINE DEAD

The Brilliant Son of the Secretary of State.

SEIZED BY THE CRUEL GRIPPE

Influenza Leads to Pneumonia—The President, Vice President and Others Tender Their Sympathy in the Sudden Affliction

WASHINGTON Jan 1—Walker Blaine, examiner of claims in the state department and eldest son of James G Blaine, secretary of state, died at the family residence at 5:30 o clock this evening of acute pneumonia superinduced by an attack of the grippe.

He had been ill only a few days and his death was a sudden and severe shock to his unusually large circle of friends who were not aware he was dangerously ill until this morning. The family are prostrated with grief. He was not feeling well all last week and Friday he became much worse and was compelled to take to his bed. The secretary gave a dinner party Monday night to a number of people prominent in official society and Walker Blaine was then feeling so much better that he sat up for some time chatting with the guests and afterwards walked about the house. He contracted an additional cold which settled on his lungs and developed into acute pneumonia last night.

This morning his condition was so alarming that all the immediate relatives of the family were hastily summoned home by telegraph. He was delirious most of the day with exceedingly high temperature and painfully labored respiration.

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE

Walker Blaine graduated from Yale college in 1876 and studying law received his diploma from Columbia college, New York in 1878, and in 1881 while Garfield was on his death bed he sent for Walker Blaine and appointed him third assistant secretary of state saying he appreciated his ability and desired to show it. After serving in this capacity very acceptably for nearly a year he was appointed on the Alabama claims commission where he served with great credit from 1882 to 1885. On the advent of the present administration he was appointed solicitor of the state department a position which he has also filled with great credit and ability.

SYMPATHY OF PROMINENT PERSONS

President and Mrs Harrison called very soon after Mr Blaine's death and Vice-President and Mrs Morton came soon afterwards. Justices Harlan and Gray of the supreme court, most of the members of the Maine delegation, Representative Hitt and many others well known in official and social life also called. No arrangements for the funeral will be made until to morrow.

VAST EXPENSE OF THE NEW NAVY

Ninety Two Vessels Needed, Which Will Cost Nearly Three Hundred Millions

WASHINGTON Jan 15—The naval board of officers appointed to formulate plans for building a navy commensurate with the dignity and power of the nation in their report to the secretary of the navy will recommend the construction of ninety two vessels of different types and sizes and these will be built, according to the plan of the board, in fourteen years and will cost together with their maintenance during fourteen years, $?80 000 000. They say the cost of maintenance of a fleet of vessels such as they propose would be only one quarter that of keeping up the same number of old style vessels.

The scheme of the board comprises the following vessels the estimated cost of which, with armament complete, is appended: Ten battle ships of 10 000 tons $5 000 000 each, eight of 8000 tons $5 000,000 each, twelve of 7000 tons, $1 500 000 each, five of 6000 tons $3 600,000 each, ten rams of 3000 tons $800 000 each, nine armored cruisers of 6250 tons to make 19 knots an hour, $3 300 000 each; four protected cruisers of 4800 tons to make 22 knots an hour $3 500 000 each, nine protected cruisers of 5400 tons to make 20 knots an hour, $2 800 000, two protected cruisers of 4000 tons, to make 19 knots an hour $2 650 000 each, five special cruisers of 1200 tons to make 18 knots an hour, $500 000 each fifteen torpedo cruisers of 900 tons, to make 22 knots an hour, $?00,000 each three artificers' ships, $2 000,000 each. The eight ships which the secretary recommends in his report shall be begun at once are not the eight proposed by the board but eight of the first ten.

Judge Shafter held that the decree was in force in all the courts and that the contract has no legal existence. He ordered the case postponed indefinitely.

IMMORALITY OF PUBLIC MEN

Defaulting Treasurer Riley County Kan, the Dupe of a Woman—Fraud in the Failure of Chicago Middlemen

MONTREAL Jan 15—Society in this city ... ch... ... address ... by Rev Dr Douglas president of the Wesleyan Methodist college. It was the most ... arraignment of social leaders and public officials ever heard in Canada. There were many ladies in the audience.

After comparing Montreal with London as described by the Pall Mall Gazette he denounced the modern drama referring particularly to Camille, the representation of whose character he scored unmercifully, asking why the life and death of an utterly abandoned woman should be portrayed before decent people. Speaking of the horrible death scene he said:

Your dowager duchesses draw forth their perfumed handkerchiefs and gaze with weeping eyes over this turbid one of grim death, but these same duchesses have no compassion, no tears for the scores of Camilles that languish in the city hospitals. It is time that some one should lift up their voices in this city against the influence of our modern stage.

I impeach the moral sense of our city for its criminal indifference to the character of its public men. This city has elected men from whose homes virtue has fled, men who have sought to introduce the Ottoman seraglio into our country, men whose lives are a perpetual defiance of the canon of the seventh decalogue.

I impeach the booksellers and news venders as at war with virtue. Look at the sons and daughters of the most Christian families—what company do they keep? In the retirement of their own rooms, in the silence of the midnight hour they companionate with vagabonds and profligates and outcasts creations of the Braddons, Ouidas and Swinburnes, all the product of the foulest minds of our age.

Dr Douglas went on to say that many members of parliament are men, at the very mention of whose name virtue blushes and modesty hides her head and their record is pestilential. He wound up with a most scathing denunciation of society men who prey upon virtue.

CHICAGO BOGUS FAILURES

One Firm Gambled $100 000 on the Board of Trade—The Deimel Swindle.

CHICAGO Jan 15—A rule was to day issued by the Federal court requiring the officers of the Meade VanBokkelen Company to submit to an examination before the master in chancery. The order grows out of discoveries made by Receiver Parker, who alleged that L O VanBokkelen senior member of the firm, lost $100 000 of the firm's money on the board of trade. The Meade VanBokkelen Company dealt largely in California fruits and wines, and failed a month ago. The liabilities of the company were $300 000, of which claims to the amount of $80 000 were unsecured, the assets being only $70 000.

In the course of examination of the books it was shown that payments of between $30 000 and $40 000 credited to merchandise and bills payable, were really payments by L O VanBokkelen to L O Lee to be used in speculations on the board of trade. The receiver reports that he knows of $30 000 that went into the board, He believed that on further investigation it will be proven that upwards of $100 000 was lost there. The receiver also found an item of $20 000 credited to bills receivable which it was explained was an amount due from saloonkeepers for a certain brand of champagne in the booming of which Lindley & Co of New York are said to have spent $100 000 in the West. The Meade-Van Bokklen Company was a party to the enterprise. Though $20 000 was said to be due from saloonkeepers the books only show sales of $4000 worth. The receiver further charges that the firm distributed a large amount of goods among warehouses, and that there are no receipts or anything else to show for such storage. It is also charged that goods known to be consigned goods were used by the firm to raise borrowed money which the members appropriated to their own use.

Each day brings to light more frauds in the Deimel Bros failure. A partial statement of an examination of the books was made in Judge Collins's court this morning. Attorney Mayer stated that the insolvents had removed a number of pages from their ledger inserting others for them, that the firm before the day of the failure had shipped away several carloads of machinery and stock. Joseph Deimel was arrested this morning on a capias issued out of the federal court yesterday, but released, being under bonds to appear and testify before the master of chancery.

A WOMAN GOT THE MONEY.

Treasurer of Riley County, Kansas Steals Money to Give to a Prostitute.

MEMPHIS Tenn, Jan 15—The sheriff of Riley county Kan arrived in this city this morning to take charge of James Fortney, the absconding treasurer of that county, who was arrested here on board the City of Cairo. At present Fortney owns a valuable farm near Manhattan, and has an interest in two iron foundries, one at Manhattan, the other at Des Moines Iowa. The exact amount of the shortage is $30 517. He was elected treasurer of Riley county four years ago qualifying under a bond of $125 000. A year ago a shortage in his accounts was suspected and suit was brought to have the books investigated. He won the case and no further efforts were made to have an investigation until six months later when a second suit was entered, and resulted in a mandamus to compel him to show the books. Hearing of the writ, Fortney locked the vault in which the county funds were kept and evaded the sheriff by going to Canada. He returned four months ago and it is claimed robbed the vault and again skipped out.

Crooked Toronto Bank Clerks

TORONTO Jan 15—Financial circles were greatly excited to day by a rumor that several clerks in one of the leading banks of this city had embezzled $100 0 0. On investigation it appears that the report was exaggerated. There have been some irregularities at the Ontario bank, owing to the crookedness of an accountant, who recently resigned. The books of the ledger keeper, Harry Brown were not properly checked and Brown it appears allowed two customers of the bank to overdraw their accounts to the extent of $40 000 without the knowledge or consent of the bank manager. Brown has not been at the bank for several days owing to illness. To day he suddenly left the city. An examination of the bank's books is in progress.

... New York Submarine Road

NEW YORK Jan 15—[Special Telegram]—The East River Railway Company has been incorporated at Albany, with a working capital of $1 000 000 for the purpose of providing rapid transit between Brooklyn and New York. Mayer ... is the inventor of the innovation in transportation methods that the company proposes to introduce, and he is to be president of the company. Mayer proposes to employ gravitation instead of steam power. Under his plans the East river will be tunneled at a depth ranging from fifty to 100 feet below its bed the tunnel to run from the foot of Broadway in Williamsburg to Jerome street in this city. Starting at either end the tunnel will fall apparently at the rate of twenty five feet in every hundred until a short level stretch in the middle is reached. Trains of cars will be started simultaneously from the Brooklyn and New York ends and it is expected that the cars going down the incline will gather sufficient impetus to carry them across the level space and almost to the top of the incline at the other side. As the cars gradually lose their momentum a cable will grip them automatically and carry them to the station at the top. The entire rolling stock of the company is to consist of only two trains of cars and it is claimed they will run at intervals of one minute.

The markets generally are in a rather quiet condition; the interruption of traffic by snow blockades on some of the leading transportation lines conducing to this state of affairs.

The produce market is fairly active, though there is somewhat of a scarcity in home produce. The supply of vegetables from California, however, is equal to the demand.

WHEAT—The market is dull, with a poor demand for cargoes. Freights, however, are firm, there being few ships in port and not many coming. In one case as high as 45s was offered. Quotations: Valley, $1 22@1 22½; Walla Walla, nominal, $1 15. The following are the fluctuations of the Eastern markets:

OATS—The market is weak. Quotations: 37@38c.

POTATOES—The market is weak with prospects of liberal receipts if the weather should become mild. San Francisco dealers anticipate extensive receipts of Eastern stocks and advise their Oregon correspondents to be cautious in the matter of high prices.

ONIONS—The market remains firm with no change in prices.

EGGS—The supply is light. Price quoted is 40c, although some dealers hold out for 45 for Oregon stock.

ORANGES—The supply is good. One dealer received a car load of fine Riversides to-day and expects another to-morrow.

POULTRY—The supply is fair and market firm. Quotations: Chickens, $5@6; ducks, $8@9; geese, $9@10 50.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

Hops Firm and Advancing—Potatoes at a Standstill—Oranges Pouring In.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—[Special Telegram.]—Money has eased somewhat since January 1. There is slack inquiry for wheat with which to load an occasional ship, and exporters are paying 2¼ cents per cental more in the country than on this market. Oats have declined, dealers being unable to maintain the advance mentioned in the last review. Bran and middlings are very firm, and millers have advanced prices several times during the week. Family flour was marked down 15 cents per barrel some days ago, and the market is quiet.

Hops continue to harden. Buyers now bid 10 cents for choice, but growers are following their usual course of keeping a cent or two in advance of bids, and some have actually withdrawn their offerings from the market, hence trade is quiet. A few weeks ago buyers bid 7 cents, but holders wanted 8 cents; then buyers bid 8 cents and holders wanted 9 cents; then buyers advanced their bids to 9 cents, and holders wanted 10 cents. Finally the buyers got up to 10 cents, but obtain few hops.

Wool is reported quiet at the prices last quoted.

Potatoes have ceased to advance for the moment, as buyers have been scared off by the announcement of the expected arrival of a train load from the East. They are still high, however. Onions of good quality are in slender supply, and have advanced to $2 15 per cental.

Butter continues to decline as spring approaches, the depreciation during the week being about 2 cents per pound.

Eggs of all descriptions are more abundant, and prices have dropped sharply since last report. Supplies are increasing.

The supply of fresh fruit here is now limited to apples and oranges. The latter have come in heavily during the week and have declined sharply.

Hay shows no particular change.

Beef is in better supply, and ¼ cent per pound lower. Lambs of all descriptions are very scarce. Provisions are in fair demand, with a further decline in hams, bacon and lard. Canned salmon are neglected and nominal, with free stock.

Coal is easy, despite the inclement weather of the past month and the consequent heavy consumption, which is said to have been remarkable. The winter demand, as far as importers are concerned, is practically over.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Stocks to-day were dull, narrow and contracted, as usual of late, but there was a better distribution of business done. The tone of the market after the first half hour was firm to strong. Chairman Walker's opinion upon the Union Pacific-Northwestern alliance was again made to do duty against these stocks, but the stocks were scarcely moved at all. The close was dull but strong, and generally at the best prices of the day, though in all but two cases these were but fractionally better than last evening's figures. Oregon Short Line 1 down 1 per cent, but sugar rose 7⅛ and Manhattan 1⅝.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, THURSDAY, JAN. 16.

OREGONIANA.

George Tillotson, of Polk county, aged 75 years, who came across the plains to Oregon in 1852, died on Sunday last.

For the last three years Crook county has sent out of the country each year no less than $150,000 for breadstuff. Every season Crook county raises its own breadstuff it means a saving of about $150,000 to the people.

In transportation facilities between Astoria and Portland, says the Pioneer, we are away behind eight years ago, and have no such facilities as one year ago. Then two night boats and two day boats; now, no night boat, and one day boat—an all day boat, too.

Oregon has some inventive talent among her citizens. Mr. Louis Bergendahl, of Pendleton, the inventor of the famous rotary snow plow, has turned his ingenuity in another direction, and on December 17, 1889, secured a patent for a combined rotary land plow and harrow.

The Bandon Recorder with its latest issue, commenced its seventh volume. The editor claims that it proposes to push onward and upward, ever battling for equality and justice, for higher educational methods, for more social relations between man and man, for the overthrow of injustice and for the prosperity of the place where it is published.

The Salem Statesman of Tuesday says the crews of the Oregon Pacific have been ordered to report for duty to-day and it is likely a couple of that company's boats will be here to-morrow, one coming each way. The river affords easy boating now and continues slowly to rise. There are vast quantities of freight to be transported by the boats and they will be kept busy for many weeks to come.

It is probable, says the Salem Statesman, that the next legislature will again have to meet the necessity for more room at the state asylum for the insane, if not also at the penitentiary. The new wing at the asylum will soon be filled up completely, at the present rate of increase. The rapid increase in the number of patients is rather the result of the growth of our population than an epidemic of insanity.

The Tillamook Watchtower says the Journal of Salem recently increased its capital stock from $5000 to $10,000 and will soon import a pair of editors from Iowa with the intention of making it one of the leading dailies of the Northwest. Beware of incompetent imported editorial talent. An Eastern Oregon paper has recently made itself the laughing stock of the state by the efforts of one of these geniuses who betrays, to put it mildly, some peculiar conceptions of state affairs.

The Times-Mountaineer gives the losses by the recent fire at The Dalles as follows: Max Vogt, building, $12,000, insured; W. H. Moody & Co., $30,000, insured; L. Rorden & Co., $10,000, insured; H. Solomon, damage by water, $5000, insured; D. H. Cates, $200, no insurance; Dr. Waters, $100, no insurance; Dr. Boyd, $200, no insurance; John Cocker, $100, no insurance; Dr. Rinehart, $100, no insurance; Dufur & Watkins, $500, insured; James Webster, $200, no insurance; S. F. Boyer, $250, no insurance.

The city marshal Sunday night, says the Times-Mountaineer, found a cache of some stolen goods in a sack secreted in an alley, and laid in wait for the thief. Pretty soon a boy came along and shouldered the sack and walked off, and the marshal told him to halt. At this the boy made tracks around the block, and threw his sack over a garden fence. In order to frighten the thief two shots were fired at him at random, but this only accelerated the boy's speed, and he was soon so far away that overtaking him was out of the question.

WASHINGTONIANA.

The Pullman Herald suggests to the legislature of Washington the advisability of providing for the publication of all the session laws in the newspapers of the state, the only compensation to be allowed therefor to be the union rates for typesetting.

This week's issue of the La Camas News presents rather a queer appearance. The "patent outside" is dated August 17. The reason that the ancient sheet was resurrected is explained by the fact that the "patent" was snowbound and communication was cut off between La Camas and the outside world.

A weekly mail line has been established from Waterville to Conconully, but there are a great many settlers beyond that who have to go to Conconully for their mail, making a journey of twenty to thirty miles necessary. An office ought to be established, says the Ellensburgh Localizer, somewhere near Palmer lake, which could supply the Wannicut lake country as well.

Wallula has not appreciated the Herald, so the Herald has died for lack of support. Its editor sings the following funeral dirge: "We have labored for one year and seven weeks constantly. We have worked for the interests of Wallula and its citizens. What have we received in return? Nothing; not even half-way support. The Herald dies simply because the people of Wallula will not support it."

The Colfax Commoner evidently does not possess a strong attachment for L. P. Berry, who is said to be pushing his claims for the United States marshalship, to judge by the following extract: "He is not the choice of the republicans of Whitman county, nor of the public in general, who believe the nomination should fall upon a more deserving man; but this makes little difference to Mr. Berry. He has been too long a candidate for office to let such trifles as public opinion scare him off."

All the lumber mills on Puget sound belonging to the Pacific Pine Lumber Association have reduced their actual working time to twelve days per month, amounting to 120 hours. The occasion for shutting down is a scarcity of available lumber tonnage. Foreign and coastwise freights continue favorable. The coasting lumber vessels have nearly all gone foreign, and the mills have no means of sending their product from the Sound. It will be fully three months before shipping will resume its old-time activity. Some mills contemplate shutting down until April.

The Globe and other papers claim that Senator Squire was recently hiding to keep out of the way of aspiring politicians whom he did not wish to meet. This is the version that the Washington correspondent of the Globe gave of the affair: It was found that Squire had been at the Hoffman house all the time, and had ordered all communication with him cut off. It was found that he had been closeted with a number of leading politicians from his state, and a conference was held to decide just how the patronage should be distributed. Governor Moore was one of the conferees at the Hoffman house. All this indicated that Squire had violated his agreement with Allen and Wilson, and that he had decided to run things in the new state to suit Squire and his henchmen. This action on his part, however, is sure to mark the beginning of a lengthy and bitter patronage row in the new state.

FROM OREGON CITY.

W. Carey Johnson's Condition Improved—Important Meeting of the Board of Trade.

OREGON CITY, Jan. 15.—[Special Correspondence.]—Since yesterday noon the symptoms of W. Carey Johnson have been decidedly better. His temperature and pulse have been more nearly normal, his rest better, and a decided gain is noted in the action of the stomach. His attending physicians seem more confident that a crisis has been passed and that his chance for recovery is more hopeful. Still, he is very weak, and life at the best but hangs by a thread.

Yesterday the Willamette Falls Excelsior Company held its annual stockholders' meeting. Reports from the various officers showed a favorable year's work and a bright outlook for the future. The reports also showed an investment in building the new plant during the past year of $25,000. The following-named directors were chosen: E. L. Eastham, A. W. Howard, James Roake, N. O. Walden and T. L. Charman.

Last night was the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade, there being the fullest attendance in six months. Much interest was manifested. F. E. Donaldson was elected a member. A series of resolutions were introduced by E. L. Eastham, deprecating the granting of a franchise by the county court to the East Portland & Barlow Station Railroad Company, or any other company, granting the public highways and bridges for use for railroad purposes. The resolutions were intended so as to include the following-named committee to appear before the county court at its next meeting and present the views of the board: J. T. Apperson, H. E. Cross, E. L. Eastham, G. A. Harding and C. O. T. Williams. In this form the resolutions were unanimously adopted. H. E. Cross, E. M. Rands, E. L. Eastham, F. O. McCown and L. Le Mahieu were appointed a committee to prepare a remonstrance in accord with the resolutions just adopted, and cause the same to be generally circulated throughout the county.

A proposition from Portland gentlemen of known business ability and means was submitted, offering to erect and maintain a cannery, providing a bonus of $ 0,000 was raised. H. E. Cross, C. O. T. Williams and J. T. Apperson were appointed a committee to take the matter in hand and to visit our citizens and see what can be done. The committee began work this morning.

The Commercial Bank of Oregon City threw open its doors for business this morning in their new brick and stone building opposite the postoffice. The bank is capitalized for $100,000, and is officered as follows: D. C. Latourette, president; H. B. Latourette, vice president; F. E. Donaldson, cashier and secretary. This building, though small, is very neat and architecturally beautiful.

Roy, only son of Robert and Ellen Finley, died yesterday of typhoid fever, aged 11 years.

AGAINST AID TO SHIPPING.

An Argument to Show That It Won't Pay to Subsidize American Vessels.

WOODLAND, Wash., Jan. 11.—[To the Editor.]—Senator Frye's bill to aid the merchant marine of the United States is of far reaching consequences, and if adopted would no doubt revolutionize the shipping of the country. It gives a subsidy to steam and sailing vessels both, and would give employment to a great deal of labor and capital. While this would stimulate business very much in certain sections of the country, it would be again a protection to a certain industry and certain localities at the expense of the country at large.

Between the Atlantic coast and Europe any number of steamer lines are established, that receive subsidies from various maritime nations of Europe, and as a result the shipping from the United States is done at low figures and to all points where needed. The benefits derived from a line of steamers owned in the United States would accordingly result in no general good, except to the builders and owners of the vessels, while again new monopolies would be created.

Different it is with steamer lines operated from the Atlantic coast to South America, for so far most of our trade with these countries has gone through European channels, and has come here through a round about way. For instance, the coffee of Brazil, instead of coming by way of England, might as well be imported direct, while in turn we would have a better chance to send there many of our goods, which we can furnish at competitive rates.

It is the same with a steamer line from the Pacific coast to China, because closer trade relations with that country might open up that vast empire to our products and to American enterprise.

To subsidize sailing vessels to such an extent that we could successfully compete in that line with other nations would necessitate a great amount of money to overcome our disadvantages of dearer ships, dearer capital and dearer labor; and though our treasury [illegible] the money [illegible] for better [illegible] otherwise.

It seems that our politicians at Washington are at a loss to know what to do with the surplus, while they are afraid to "tackle" the only just way of reducing that surplus, by reducing the tariff.

And yet nothing would more benefit the people of the [illegible] valley, who really have created that surplus, and who now sells his wheat at a loss, than such a reduction, if he only knew it. Till he gets enlightened however, he will have to carry the burden of this government. H. W. KOCH.

BLAINE AND HIS BROTHER.

They Were the Sons of the Same Mother but of Different Fathers.

SALEM, Jan. 15.—[To the Editor.]—Some newspapers, as well as some people, are drawing wrong inferences from the fact that a half brother of James G. Blaine recently died at Salem under the name of M. G. Lane. The similarity of name, it seems, caused your Washington correspondent to suppose that the Oregon brother had found it convenient to drop several letters of the surname and reduce Blaine to Lane. As the matter assumes a phase disrespectful to the deceased, and casts a slur on the family, a few words of explanation will be in order. I knew Mr. Lane well, and for years have heard him talk of his brother "Jim," for whom he had a warm regard. They had the same mother but different fathers, and there was never any hesitation on his part in regard to the relationship, or pretense that it was other than here stated. The similarity of the names was merely a coincidence, and those who are trying to throw mud on the Blaine family on the ground that a brother of the premier died in Oregon under an alias, are wasting their efforts, as the deceased, M. G. Lane, was just exactly what he claimed to be. The Washington correspondent was evidently misled by just such ghoulish clamor there. S. A. C.

THE DUTY ON JUTE.

A Writer Advocates a Petition for the Removal of the Duty.

PORTLAND, Jan. 13.—[To the Editor.]—Having been a reader of THE OREGONIAN since its foundation, and having always found it ready to publish anything in the interest of the farmer, I avail myself of its columns now to say a word to the farmers on the Pacific coast. President Harrison, in his message to congress, recommends a general reduction of the tariff. Now, it is a well known fact that the farmer pays for more than half of all the tariff tax. It is not the design of the government that this should be so, but it is so to the farmer just the same. The farmer is always willing to bear his part of the burden and to do his duty in sustaining the government; but the fact is through the burden of taxation and high freight and light crops and low prices the farm interests of this coast are in a very depressed condition. The mortgages on the farm is clear proof. Would it not be right and proper for the farmers of Oregon, California and Washington to petition congress to take the duty off of jute and jute bags? The duty on jute bags is said to be 40 per cent. on their cost and the raw material is 30 per cent. This duty being taken off will not interfere in any way with those parties on this coast who make sacks for the market. They would realize just the same for their work, but the removal of this duty means from one and a half to two cents a bushel more to the farmer for his wheat. What the farmers in any county or state would gain would be represented by the number of bushels multiplied by one and a half. If a county produces 3,000,000 bushels that county would gain $45,000. If the farmers on this coast will petition congress on this subject I have no doubt their petition will be granted. The farmers of the United States compose more than half the voting population. They can make themselves heard and felt if they wish to. The day is now at hand when such a petition can not be safely ignored. The local press claims to advocate the interests of the farmer, will they take my suggestion and work it up? I hope every paper on this coast will do so. A. W. S.

REPORTER'S LEGAL ROUNDS.

What Was Gathered From the Records of the Several Courts

Case of James O Brien—Both Held—Easter ... Legal Tribunals—Civil Actions—New Administrator Wanted—Notes

James O Brien indicted for robbing the postoffice at Cottage Grove of $10 on the night of the 4th of October last was arraigned in the United States circuit court for trial. He evidently knew he was guilty and wishing to spare the officers of the law the trouble of proving it he changed his plea of not guilty to guilty and Judge Sabin at once sentenced him to pay a fine of $100 and to be imprisoned in the state penitentiary at hard labor for eighteen months. The amount stolen by O Brien was small but his will was good, as he drilled a hole in a safe containing $3000 with the intention of blowing it open, but owing to some bungling his burglarizing was not a success.

BOTH HELD TO ANSWER.

Mrs McCormack proprietor of the Hamburg sailor boarding house Astoria and August ... on a runner in her employ were examined before United States Commissioner ... Deady yesterday on a charge of harboring and secreting Charles C Chr... a deserter from the British ship ... McPherson. There was a great discrepancy between the statements of the ... in regard to the matter and those of Mrs McCormack and her runner but they were held to answer in $ 00 cash.

The Municipal Courts

Criminal matters in the municipal courts have been very light during the past few weeks and some days there is nothing at all in either of the justice courts. Ordinary drunks vagrants beggars and a few stray ... constitute the criminal element in the police court and in the justice courts it is a rare day when anything more serious than a case of assault and battery or a few unimportant civil actions are under consideration.

JUDGE TANNER'S CRIST

In the police court yesterday Mrs Armstrong W J Rankin and James McGraw were fined $5 each for indulging too freely in anti-prohibition drinks. Walter Earnest was given ten days in the city jail for the same offense and John Kloster and John High land were sentenced to serve twenty days each for allowing themselves to be arrested on a charge of vagrancy.

Edward Feurry, a 14 year old lad was also arrested on a charge of vagrancy. He vehemently denied the charge, and will be given an opportunity to prove his innocence this afternoon.

Charles Selby charged with stealing an overcoat from the saloon of August Baum sister waived examination and the court fixed his bail at $500 pending an investigation by the grand jury.

ASCHER'S TROUBLES MULTIPLY

J Ascher the young man recently discharged in Justice Phelan's court where he had an examination on a charge of assault ing Mrs Effie Lake was yesterday rearrested on a warrant sworn out in Justice Tuttle's court charging him with assault with intent to kill. The complainant is E Lake the woman's husband. Ascher is beginning to think that he is a victim of malicious persecution as he says there is nothing in either of the charges trumped up against him. The charge of assault with intent to kill will probably fall through as did the charge of simple assault.

CIVIL ACTION

Joseph Cook has brought suit in Justice Tuttle's court against John Martin to recover the face value of two notes with costs of action. The notes are for $90 and $40 and the costs as reasonable attorney's fees are $15 and $6 respectively in each case.

In the same court J Lubyka has brought suit against W W J ... pey to recover $60 the price of a suit of clothes delivered January 15, 1889, and interest at the rate of 8 per cent from that date.

The State and County Courts

On the 18th of last November Charles Younst was arrested for the larceny of $60 from one Barney Brainor of Shoalwater bay while the latter was asleep in a rear room of the IXL saloon, on lower First street. He was yesterday brought to trial having been indicted under the name of Charles Reed. The jury were out nearly two hours and returned with a verdict of not guilty.

The case of the state against A F Anderson the alleged confederate of Youcusts went to trial in the afternoon and was continued at an evening session. At ten o clock the jury brought in a verdict of guilty and fixed the value of his haul at $20. This gives him simple larceny being under $35 the dividing line.

Both suits were listened to by a large representation of the defendants North Port and co st tuency.

IMPARTIAL ADMINISTRATOR WANTED

Mrs Elizabeth McCalla, daughter of the late James B Stephens who left a large estate in East Portland petitioned Judge Catlin yesterday for the appointment of an administrator who will act fairly and justly in the management of the property.

The first administrator C A Gove was quite satisfactory to her but in her petition she alleges that the pressure which brought about his removal was a misrepresentation of facts to the county court by interested parties principally Henry Jones formerly her father's confidential agent.

Judge Catlin fixed Tuesday morning next for the hearing of Mrs McCalla's petition.

THE OLDS AND BUCKLEY MANDATES

The arrival from Salem of the mandates of the supreme court in the cases of Sandy Olds and John Buckley were announced in Department No 2 of the state circuit court yesterday morning. Upon request of prisoner's counsel to admit Buckley to bail the sum was fixed at $1500.

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, THURSDAY, JAN. 16.

A POSTAL TELEGRAPH

Senator Cullom of Illinois and Representative Bingham of Pennsylvania have brought in a bill to establish a postal telegraph service Bingham is chairman of the committee on postoffices and postroads. This measure authorizes the postmaster general to contract "with any existing telegraph company for the use of its lines for postal messages between free delivery offices The postmaster general is to decide the extent and location of the proposed service, and to fix the rates, which are to be prepaid by stamps. The telegraph messages are to be delivered by the regular carriers at the first mail delivery following and "at such other times as the postmaster general may direct."

Plans of the same nature for postal telegraph were proposed in the fiftieth congress THE OREGONIAN has always maintained that it is not properly the government's business to manage telegraphs, because it is an initial effort to inaugurate the paternalism in government that is the rule in Europe, and results in making the people listless, inefficient and incompetent to govern themselves

If the proposed postal telegraph should become a law the "standing army" of federal officeholders would be increased by at least 100,000 men, enlisted and employed under the orders of one of the departments of the government Practically the result of a government postal telegraph would be to destroy private property that stands in the market at $60 000,000, because of course no private corporation that earns a dividend could compete with the goverment that does not care whether it earns a dividend or not This would be a gross public outrage, for it would rob a multitude of small investors in telegraph stocks who have done nothing that could justify the general goverment in depriving them of their savings The official figures of postal telegraphic receipts expenditures and deficiencies in Great Britain are as follow:

Year end g Mar 31.	Rec'ts £	Total expenses £	Int. on capital £	Deficit £
1881	1,633 887	1 208 454	326 417	984
1882	1,654,390	1,449,498	326,417	112,525
1883	1,768 070	1 583 877	326,417	142 224
1884	1 789,223	1 808,920	326,417	346,114
1885	1 784 414	1 820 764	326 417	362,767
1886	1,787,254	1,832 401	326 417	371,564
1887	1,957 224	2,030,647	326,417	409 840

England is a small and thickly settled country, and yet the government furnishes the people with telegraph service at a public loss of more than two millions of dollars annually. When we remember that Great Britain has an area of less than 122,000 square miles and that it has a population of but 37,000 000, while the United States has an area of 3 570 271 square miles and a population of 60,000,000 it is clear that if a government telegraph cannot pay in thickly-settled Great Britain it certainly cannot pay in sparsely-inhabited America If Great Britain loses $2 000,000 annually in her postal telegraph service, the United States would certainly lose $20 000 000 The voices of the anti-Western Union lobby assert that the plant of the Western Union could be duplicated for one-fourth of its capital but dispassionate investigators report that the construction of a government telegraph reaching all the postoffices would require a great deal more cash than the aggregate capital of the Western Union

The objection to a governmental telegraph is that the original investment is enormous, that the deficiency is extravagant and permanent, that it is a dangerous and destructive invasion of personal rights without furnishing the public with better service than they enjoy at present. It takes six times the length of wire and three times as many persons in this country to transact the same amount of business by telegraph that it does in England The regular rate in England is 1 cent a word, but this includes the address and signature, making the cost of sending ordinary brief messages actually greater there than here Notwithstanding this in Great Britain the government loses over 6 cents per message and not 2 per cent of the people ever send a telegram, and yet the whole country is taxed for this accommodation to this small fraction of the population The president of the Western Union Telegraph Company estimates that not more than two per cent. of our people ever use the telegraph in any one year, and not over five per cent. of the revenues of the telegraph are derived from family and social messages About eight per cent. is derived from news service, and eighty-seven per cent is commercial and speculative returns The profits in the telegraph business in the United States are only obtained by the systematic exercise of an intelligence and skill that is unattainable under the government service which always suffers from the fact that the public service will always be more or less a succession of post holes for rotten fences, and from the fact that the government has an inexhaustible account with a bank that is not obliged to declare a dividend

The press service by telegraph in this country is at lower rates and better done than in Great Britain or any other nation on earth, according to the testimony of Murat Halstead a newspaper proprietor, who, in his annual visits to Europe, has investigated the foreign service and compared it with our own. The scheme of government telegraphy is vicious because it stands for the confiscation of private property by the government; it proposes to tax 60 000 000 of people largely for the benefit of 2 per cent of the people, who are represented by Wall street, by the race course, by the prize ring, by the baseball, football and rowing contests If we ever do this stupid thing it will be merely the initiative and precedent for a general policy of paternalism in government. The next thing would be the absorption of the express companies by the "parcels post," which is part of the English postoffice system Then we should have government railroads, and so on until paternalism in government would reach the point described by Halstead when he says "If this line of reformation is to prevail, it is only a question of time when permits with stamps on them will be required of the farmers before it shall be lawful to plant corn

MORE LATIN REPUBLICS

Events are moving in the direction of one or two more Latin republics in Europe Spain has been vibrating between monarchy and republic for twenty years Its people have grown restive under the rule of kings but seem dimly conscious of their unfitness for self government So they have tried first one then the other Accident has generally determined the choice The accident of an unpopular paramour to a corrupt but amiable queen determined the expulsion of Isabella. The accident of the assassination of Prim sickened the nation of the republic His death left Castelar the mainstay of the Spanish republican party and a dreamy theorist could not take the place of a practical soldier and statesman The republic wouldn't work, and the Spaniards are a practical and order loving people after all They preferred to govern themselves but they wanted to be governed some how and they realized their incapacity The return of the Bourbon was a natural and practical expedient

If the Spanish Bourbons had any of the stuff of manhood in them they might have ruled a contented Spain for a generation or two But that family has run to seed. It was hard work to keep Isabella's limp rag of a son alive long enough to beget the nebulous shadow of an heir whose baby life now hangs in the balance at Madrid The death of this luckless little creature will be a new accident in the history of Spain, and it may determine another return to the republican experiment. It is difficult to see what other course is open. The death of the baby king involves a long regency and a female succession This means the government of Spain by palace intrigue and ministerial cabal for a generation to come Plainly, the people will not endure this It is unlikely that, at this late day, they will accept the Carlist pretender Spain doesn't want a republic and isn't fit for it. She wants a king strong enough to give her order and peace at the price of liberty But that breed of kings is exhausted upon her soil. If the baby monarch dies, she will probably have to take the trouble to govern herself, and she will probably make a botch of it, as before

The Portuguese think they would like a republic, too They know still less what they want than the Spaniards, because they have never tried. The republican flurry there is the result of two accidents, the Brazilian revolution and the severe disciplining of Portugal by Great Britain, which has made its government unpopular with the people So far, the popular discontent has spent itself in forcing the ministry to resign and in riotous demonstrations against the English, but the summary expulsion of Dom Pedro from Brazil has put the republican notion in the rather flighty Portuguese head, and it is reported that a revolutionary outbreak may occur at any time The establishment of a republic in Portugal would afford a spicy sort of a national opera bouffe entertainment for the rest of the world and might be an useful education for the Portuguese, but the government would have rather hard lines for a time The Portuguese are still less fitted than the Spaniards by character and training for self government, and have not even the good fortune to know their deficiencies, since they have never tried the republican experiment If they do try it, like most Latin races who think it is a simple and easy thing to govern themselves, they will probably gain sadness and wisdom together

A NEW BIBLICAL NOVEL

In the next issue of THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN will begin a new story by the well known author Elizabeth Stuart Phelps entitled, "Come Forth," the scenes of which are laid in the Holy Land in the time of Christ. No other author of the present day so combines the qualities that are necessary to the production of such a romance Her reputation and her greatest successes have been in stories of a deeply religious character On the other hand some of her short stories are the most intense and dramatic pieces of fiction in American literature The opening chapters of this story promise well for a continuation of the great reputation which the author has already attained. The immense popularity of "Ben Hur" shows how interesting is the field, and those who have read with avidity the charming books that Miss Phelps has already written will welcome this new work with a renewed pleasure It is not too much to say that the opening chapters of "Come Forth" will be read with as much or with greater zest than those of "Ben Hur," and that this interest will be carried through to an equally satisfactory conclusion

The publication of this story in THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN at the present time will command additional attraction to many readers from the fact that all the Sunday school children in this country will be studying the International lessons, which for the first half of 1890, deal with the life of Christ Teachers will find much to aid as well as interest and instruct themselves and their pupils in this story of the time of Christ It will be published serially during about twelve weeks In the preparation of this story Miss Phelps has had the assistance of her husband Rev Herbert D Ward, an accomplished Orientalist and Biblical scholar. In the preliminary studies for the characters and scenes in the story he has been in correspondence with leading Orientalists in various parts of the world and has had special assistance from the library of his father, Dr William Ward Hayes, editor of the New York Independent

A SPECIAL APPROPRIATION NEEDED

The urgent need of an immediate appropriation for continuing work on the Columbia river jetty, as set forth in the recent special report of Major Handbury, engineer in charge does not seem to be understood in Washington so well as it should be On motion of Mr Hermann, the house has asked the war department for information in relation to the matter Beyond this, there is no sign of activity or interest on the part of the Oregon delegation It should not be difficult to comprehend the extreme urgency of the case Once understood, our representatives should, one would think, leave no means unexhausted to afford relief In short, not only the prompt and economical completion of the permanent work, but the preservation and safety of the elaborate and expensive temporary work necessary thereto, depends upon the continuance of construction during the present summer This will not be possible if the appropriation is not made till the passage of the river and harbor bill near the close of congress in August or September That will be too late to make contracts for this season, and the damage anticipated will probably be done before next

This is the nature of the difficulty In order to transport the rock for the jetty, a temporary railroad has been built on piles three miles out on the bar. Part of the rock filling about these piles has been put in but not enough to protect them from the action of the waves More than that, the piles will themselves decay and the iron of the track rust, as time goes on If the work can be continued without interruption, the present piling can be filled with rock and the remaining mile and a half of jetty built during this season and the next, which is about as long as the temporary tramway can be expected to last If the work lies idle during the summer, the waves will probably knock the unprotected tramway to pieces next winter and there will be the cost and delay of reconstructing it Besides every month's delay involves loss in the use of an extensive and costly plant of pile drivers, locomotives tugs barges and engineering paraphernalia of all sorts which are needed for other government work as soon as this can be finished

The funds available for this work are about exhausted and the only wonder is that the money has lasted so long The estimate for 1888 was a million dollars and half a million was appropriated The estimate for 1889 was $1 200 000 The river and harbor bill failed and the department got nothing The half million of 1888 had to be spread over two years and made to cover the cost of a good deal of preparatory plant as well as of the work itself With these meager means—the whole appropriation to date is less than $800 000—the work of building the jetty is more than half done The estimate for this year's work is $700 000 which if it isn't cut down by congress and if the work isn't exposed to deterioration by delay will nearly complete it This is pretty well for a work the original estimate for which was $5 500 000 The work has been economically done so far, because it has been carried on continuously without the interruptions and delays usual in government construction in spite of the failure of last year's appropriation. But that failure has made it impossible to continue the work till next fall, the usual time of passing the river and harbor bill The only escape from delays and interruptions which will cost the government a great deal of money, besides delaying the opening of the mouth of the river is a special appropriation this winter Somebody in Washington ought to see to this.

DOCTORS AND LEGISLATION

An attempt to regulate the practice of medicine in the state of Washington is being made by interested medicine men (not aborigines) through friends in the legislature While the unlicensed dominion of quacks in medicine is one of the greatest evils that afflicts an ailing and credulous race, there is plainly discernible in the discussion that has lately taken place in the Washington legislature evidence of a feeling that is not solely one of pity for suffering humanity and of indignation at the impositions practiced upon it by doctors not of "our school"

The profession abounds, no doubt, in men who, as Dwight puts it "shudder to destroy life, either by the naked knife or by the surer and safer medium of empiricism but the public may be excused if it recognizes these men rather among those who are content to let their skill speak for them, than those who seek to hedge about with law their peculiar methods of dealing with disease to the end that other methods quite as reputable and ordinarily not less successful in restoring health and preserving life may be brought into disrepute Professional jealousy shines so plainly through the pretentious veil of humanity with which such legislation is usually covered but not hidden, that of necessity the discussion which it provokes takes the character of a sharp controversy between representatives of the leading "schools" of medicine. It follows that the public is treated to a display of allopathic tactics and homeopathic maneuvers, with now and then a sharp fusilade from the ranks of the eclectics and other presumptuous "healers," the effect of which is to cause a stiff-necked people to decide that the choice of a family physician is each man's own private business and that legislation upon the subject is not only wholly uncalled for, but that it trenches upon individual liberty to a degree that is forbidden by constitutional law

The bigotry that utterly refuses to believe that the graduates of any medical school but its own can be charged with a message of healing to mankind is not the less narrow or the more honorable because it poses in the name of science The doctor who would rather see a patient die than that he should survive through the application of remedies not acknowledged by his school is devoted to his system; there can be no doubt of that, but being human, he can hardly blame the patient for holding a different opinion

Doctors lose in a controversy of this kind, both in dignity and in public confidence. As to the former, it does not so much matter, perhaps, as the stock is usually ample and can suffer reasonable depletion without detriment, but loss in the latter lessens greatly their measure of usefulness, since it is a fact generally conceded that confidence in a physician is often at least essential to the recovery of the patient

It is perhaps too much to hope that a stage of human development will yet be attained wherein the most unprofessional thing that can be charged upon a physician, short of criminality in practice is professional jealousy It may come, it is true, but it looks now as if the world might have to content itself for some time with that quality of professional ethics that shrinks modestly from the advertising columns of newspapers but climbs, nothing loth, into the local items willing to recite as news only" the fact that an amputation has been performed, or the injuries of an unfortunate attended by a "prominent physician," who no doubt shrinks painfully at seeing his name in print

In the meantime so long as the people claim a proprietary right in their own stomachs, they will take calomel and jalap, pills and powders; pellets and potions, patent nostrums and decoctions of garden herbs according to the ails that beset, and the whims that possess them, regardless of inter meddling lawmakers and the jealousy of medicine men of the different schools The right to be humbugged is one of the inalienable rights of the great North American citizen That it is fully exercised is well attested by the tremendous trade that is driven in draughts that sicken and drugs that kill, in the name of science and under the specious plea of healing

The sudden death of Walker Blaine removes the only son of the distinguished secretary of state who ever cut a figure in public life or held out any promise of doing so Young Blaine was nominally examiner of claims in the state department though he had neither the legal knowledge nor the industry to perform the duties of that office In fact, he was his father's personal representative and factotum in the department, and he performed that function well The only thing Walker Blaine inherited from his father was his suave manner and capacity for making friends This stood him in good stead in the state department and made him very useful to the head Though the eldest of the family, Blaine was still under 40 and had a vigorous constitution Had he been more economical of his vital forces his expectations of life might have been ample The Blaine boys all have their frailties, Walker's weakness was the table—and he didn't always wait for dinner time

The people of Vancouver have a just grievance not at fate exactly but against the transportation companies that look on complacently while they are bottled up by the ice without making an effort to relieve them Being reasonable people, though naturally a little restive just now, they do not expect traffic to be resumed on the ice locked Columbia but they would, no doubt take it kindly if a boat were to be sent to the mouth of the Willamette each day so that they might hear from the great world outside or perhaps take a run beyond the limits of their immediate line of vision It is safe to say that the bill in which they are more deeply interested than any other that has been introduced into the present congress is the one by Representative Hermann proposing to bridge the Columbia at that place

Democratic politicians of Mississippi are nothing if not modest All they ask of congress at present is the abrogation of the fifteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States Of course the Federal law makers will make all haste compatible with so grave a subject looking to compliance with this very slight request True it may puzzle the statesmen to know what the politicians of Mississippi want the colored men disfranchised for since it is tolerably clear that they have not figured as electors in that state to any great extent but there is doubtless good reason for the request or gentlemen so chivalric, and withal so loyal to our republican institutions would not make it

Somebody demanded the calling of the roll upon the resolution to appropriate money to replace the [illegible] defalcation and the house hadn't the courage to vote in favor of it The resolution was defeated by about twenty majority Members of congress will never forget the condign punishment that overtook the back pay grabbers This is a very different case however and it seems hard that members should lose the money Silcott was the custodian of the salary due a number of members who were absent from Washington during the recess, and had not drawn it. The money was technically theirs, but really it had not passed out of the government's hands since Silcott was himself a government official If the money could be paid to members without a vote appropriating it it would undoubtedly be done One of the peculiar features of the case is that the heaviest losses fall upon the poorer members of the house, just those one would suppose would keep their salaries drawn well up Representative Hermann who lost $2800 was bold enough to vote for the appropriation.

Prohibition is triumphant in South Dakota As a result there are no saloons in that ambitious, but poverty stricken young state. There are places, however, known by the euphonious name of "blind pigs" to which the thirsty rancher repairs to quench his thirst when he can escape the vigilance of his energetic spouse One of these latter, recently finding that the proceeds of a mortgage on the farm had been absorbed to pay a prohibition whisky bill in one of these places rallied her neighbors and set upon the "blind pig," routing it with great slaughter of bottles The woman's fury was justly aroused but it was not well placed An onslaught on the man who carried the proceeds of the mortgage to the "blind pig" would have been much more to the point, as it would have fixed the blame where it belonged, and visited the penalty on the real offender

Assessors' Convention—Oregon Bicycle Club Races—Bids for the New Engine House—Weather—Church Meeting.

When Mayor DeLashmutt let his gavel fall last evening to call the council to order, all the members were in their seats. Routine business proceeded quietly through the reading of petitions, communications, etc

A note from George H. Durham was read stating that the contract for the sale of the St Helens Hall property which had been sent to Bishop Morris for his signature, had been returned properly signed So the matter of a site for a city hall can now be looked upon as settled

WILLAMETTE HEIGHTS RAILWAY COMPANY

Under the proper head an ordinance authorizing the Willamette Heights Railway Company to construct and operate a street railway from Front street up Stark to Tenth, thence on Tenth and North Eleventh streets to M street and thence to North Twenty third thence along North Twenty third to O out O to North Twenty fifth, along North Twenty fifth to T and westerly on T to the city limits, was reported back by the committee on streets with an amendment providing that the cars on the road shall not travel faster than eight miles per hour, and with a recommendation that the ordinance so amended do pass The ordinance provides that the railway shall be completed and in operation within one year from the approval of the ordinance

THE QUESTION DISCUSSED

Gerdes moved that the report be referred back to the committee, as although it was signed by a majority of the committee, he had not had time to examine it and could not conscientiously sign it He thought it was impracticable to gauge the speed of cars traveling along the streets How was any one going to tell whether they were running at eight miles an hour or more unless they had a log attached to them like ships

Mr Farrell said there was no one so blind as the man who would not see This ordinance had been before the committee for months and when a man would go out of the room when it was under consideration, it showed that he did not wish to understand it

Fliedner said the rate of speed at which cars should travel was included in all street railway ordinances, and it was also provided by law how fast horses should be driven through the streets If Gerdes could not find time to read this ordinance in six months, would he find time in six months more?

Forbes said there were a number of other ordinances and petitions for street railway franchises before committees. Some of these probably included the same streets He thought all the ordinances before any committee in regard to street railway franchises should be referred to committee of the whole so that they might be acted on intelligently and without doing wrong to any of the petitioners.

Fliedner said that this was the only ordinance for a street railway before the street committee, and they had reported on it in good faith If there were other ordinances some other committees were holding them back

IT WAS REFERRED BACK

After some further discussion, it was agreed that the ordinance be referred back to the street committee, and that it, with all other ordinances or petitions for street railway franchises in the hands of other committees should be laid before a committee of nine, to meet next Wednesday night.

WANTS THE FRANCHISE RENEWED

An ordinance was introduced by the committee on streets renewing the franchise of Frank Prantl, for building a street railway on Gibbs street, from Second street to the western limits of the city, the same having expired by limitation on January 1. In his petition asking for this renewal, Mr Prantl states that he has over 800 feet of bridge and trestle work completed, and that the grading of the entire road is completed, and that the rails for the road are on the ground, the ties are in course of delivery, and that the engines and machinery necessary for completing the road have been contracted for, wherefore he asks that he be granted till June 1, 1890, to complete the road The ordinance was read twice and referred to the street committee.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

The committee on streets reported that they had awarded contracts to E A Webster and James Frainey for the improvement of the portions of North Front street not heretofore let, which report was adopted so that the work of improving the whole of North Front street from G to the extreme northwest end of the street is now contracted for

ADDITIONAL CLERICAL ASSISTANCE.

The committee on accounts and current expenses introduced an ordinance authorizing the employment of an additional assistant in the office of the auditor and clerk at a salary of $60 per month

Gerdes astonished the council by moving that the salary be made $100 per month but the brethren suspected something and they would not have it that way but passed it as introduced

The committee on ways and means introduced an ordinance authorizing the expenditure of $60 per month for clerk hire in the office of the city treasurer for the space of six months

On motion of Scoggin the time was cut down to four months and the ordinance was then passed

SALARY INCREASED

An ordinance was introduced by the committee on sewers and drainage increasing the salary of the city attorney to $3000 a year and providing that he shall employ a deputy to attend to the police court business at his own expense; also passed.

The city attorney being asked to explain why he needed an assistant, stated that the business of his office had greatly increased—in fact, about doubled since he was appointed He had now the legal business of the water committee to attend to and the police court took up a great deal of his time

Mayor DeLashmutt stated that these commissions should pay their share of the attorney's salary. The water committee charged the city for water and made a great showing at the expense of the city.

Mr Adams stated that the amendment providing that he should work for the water committee had been made at the suggestion of the city council and the matter was dropped

SALARIES FOR MAYOR AND COUNCILMEN

An ordinance fixing the compensation of the mayor and members of the common council was introduced by the committee on sewers and drainage, it being supposed that they were the best qualified to tap and drain the pockets of the taxpayers. It provides that from and after January 1, 1890, the salary of the mayor shall be $1500 per annum and the salary of the members of the common council shall be $1000 per annum

The city is not a village any longer and the mayor and councilmen have a large amount of work to do, and the laborer is worthy of his hire A man who does a large amount of work for nothing is liable to have his actions and motives misconstrued, as were those of the man whose friends were working hard to secure his nomination for a seat in the council, on the ground that he was a poor man and needed the office which had no salary attached at the time The ordinance was read twice and referred to the committee on ways and means

ALL ABOUT JOHNS AND JOSS.

The usual ordinance granting the Chinese permission in celebrating their New Year's festivities, to explode firecrackers between the 20th day of January and the 1st of February inclusive between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock A M, and 6 and 8 o'clock P M Also at the hours of 12 30 to 7 A M of January 21 was introduced by Fliedner by request

The sudden and violent opposition to the passage of this ordinance was calculated to give the impression that a fit of holiness had seized several of the members, and that they were on the warpath in a crusade to exterminate the heathen.

Gerdes, who has lately removed from the sacred precincts of Couch to open a saloon in Chinatown, opened the ball with a loud outcry against granting privileges to the heathen

Woodward followed and opposed granting privileges to Chinese which were refused to the whites and Scoggin joined in this protest. They insisted that the Chinese should not be allowed to explode crackers on Sundays, and that if they must do so on other days they should do so on the plaza blocks This was voted down and a motion to lay the whole business on the table was carried

Then a motion was made to reconsider the vote and the trouble began all over again Messrs Fliedner, Forbes and Farrell spoke words of truth and soberness on the subject, and Gerdes delivered a lecture on the opium vice that brought tears into the eyes of all from weariness, and after about an hour's debating the ordinance was amended to provide that the firing of crackers should be confined to the district between Pine and Taylor streets and Third and Front, and Sunday should be respected and in this form it was passed.

THEY WILL HAVE TO TRY AGAIN

The High School's Newly Elected Principal Cannot Come.

Mr H S Allen, clerk of the city board of school directors, has received two telegrams from Professor F. A Hosmer, who was elected last Friday evening by the board as principal of the High school at a salary of $2000 per annum

Mr Hosmer says he cannot come It is now two weeks since he accepted another offer So it is impossible for him to accept this one The school board will thus come to a realizing sense of the truth of the old saw, "Procrastination is the thief of time" Mr Hosmer has been making hay while the sun shone, but the board failed to strike while the iron was hot Mr Hosmer was out here two months ago. Chairman Thompson was for electing a principal then, and even before then, but the board could not make up its mind Now it will have to make it up again

Professor A. Duncan Savage, who has been in the city some months, was a candidate for the position He is from New York pursued a three-years' post-graduate course at Johns Hopkins To this he added study in Germany and normal work in New York He has been solicited for a similar position in an Eastern city It is not known whether he could now be secured or not. Among other names which the board has had under consideration are those of E. R. Payson, principal of the Binghampton, N Y, schools, E N. Jones, of Saratoga; Charles A Smith, of the Rockford, Ill, high school; S S Langdon, principal of the Burlington, Vt., high school Mr Langdon is a brother of Rev W. S Langdon, pastor of Calvary Presbyterian church He is now getting $2300 a year Then there are J S Wright, of Cooperstown, New York, W B Stokes, principal of the Syracuse, New York, high school, and Professor Richardson, of Seattle, Sidney A Sherman, principal of the high school at Amherst, Mass

Richardson is the only one who has applied for the position. The Eastern men have been recommended to the board by some of the highest educational authorities in America Most of them would have to get $2500 to begin on, and some perhaps $3000 and there is no certainty that any of them would come

The new term begins February 10, and the situation is one not easily disposed of.

RAILROAD MEN AND MATTERS.

The Snow Blockade—Coming and Going Officials—The Sick List.

The presence of Vice-President Crocker here at this time is of more than passing interest. If, as is alleged his immediate attention is to be drawn to the questions which the public are asking his railroad to settle, there is ground for hope that he may find it advisable to favor the taking of steps which will eventually bring to a settlement the present unsatisfactory condition of Portland's railroad facilities

It is within the power of the Southern Pacific to carry out its part of the terminal arrangement which has been made and guaranteed to the city. A hearty co-operation on the part of the Southern Pacific would put the prospects of terminal facilities worthy of Portland's growing wealth and importance on a promising basis

Until that is done, the completion of the West Side road to Junction would have the effect to throw an enormous burden of business upon the road's West Side facilities and one which it can at present in no way provide for

A through line to San Francisco leaving and arriving from a convenient location in Portland proper would, of course, absorb pretty much all of the company's present passenger, baggage and freight business, now ferried back and forth across the river

On the other hand the advantages which would accrue to the road might prove very great It would certainly add to the attractiveness of the Southern Pacific as a transcontinental line

There seems to be, however, a disinclination on the part of local officials to undertake the handling of such a volume of business up and down Fourth street And if [illegible] the first necessary move towards the solution of the problem develops to be the arrangement for trackage to the westward around the city the situation is in nowise simplified The one thing upon which all agree that the public has a right to expect better things of the Southern Pacific and that the time is fast approaching when the road must face these matters and provide for them

The Southern Pacific trains came in yesterday morning, and the third one due at 10:30 A M arrived at 9 30 in the evening The wires were down all afternoon in Southern Oregon and for about three hours between Portland and Albany The Albany connection was established before supper, and Roseburg answered [illegible] o'clock It is snowing and [illegible] Siskiyous, and no report [illegible] south of West Fork. CHOYNSKI McLARNEY MATCH.

The coming Choynski McLarney glove contest is one of the principal topics of conversation in sporting circles in this city, and also in San Francisco considerable interest is being manifested in the outcome, especially as the ability of the "Irish Giant" is so little known There is just a little apprehension among the Bay City admirers of Choynski that the dark horse may win If good system the training is any indication of success in the ring these fears are well grounded for no athlete ever worked harder to get into condition than McLarney is at present. He has already developed great cleverness with the gloves he is a hard hitter and handles himself with the ease and skill of a scientific boxer

Choynski wired Morgan yesterday, stating that he, accompanied by W R Vice a director of the California Athletic Club would arrive in Portland Sunday and would be ready to sign articles with McLarney for the match on Monday As the contest has been postponed to the evening of the 25th Choynski himself will have some time to devote to training in this city

THE RACE PROBLEM

Lecture Delivered by Dr Joseph Holt at the Unitarian Church Last Night

Dr Joseph Holt last evening delivered the first of a series of lectures on social science at the Unitarian church The doctor chose for his subject "The Race Problem in the United States" There was a large audience present, and the discourse was listened to with marked attention

After dealing in generalities regarding the intricacies of this problem as beset by prejudices, sectional controversy, widely differing opinions and political chicanery, the speaker briefly reviewed the history of this benighted race, the conditions (social and political) of this country when they were transplanted here, and the conditions surrounding them after their emancipation from slavery

Here he met the problem from a humanitarian standpoint. Speaking of the obligations resting upon the nation, after the negro was liberated from bondage the speaker said

Made a freedman as a purpose and in the exigencies of war, the North was compelled to create him a citizen as the result of those exigencies trusting to time and circumstance, the development of fitness for his new position

Conspicuously to the front is the fact that the race problem is not of the present generation's own creation or choice but white and black North and South, are born to it. The second fact is, it will not be relegated, but must be squarely confronted The third is, there is no solution, except in conformity with the manifest course of evolution along educational lines—learning how to live together as citizens of a common country, strictly amenable to law, each taking his social scale according to the instinct of his race and his personal deserving reprobating oppression and crime, bringing all crime to judgment seeking all prosperity without injury to that of others

If this is the true solution (and no sound intelligence can question it) then race adjustment is a process of natural growth, a co-ordinated development of fitness and fitting, and is not one of political or legislative or any other experimental enforcement.

The whole solution lies in the rational application of the principles of self government the hardest of all to learn and easiest to forget Even to this date the Anglo Saxon branch of the Teutonic family seems to be the only one who has really acquired the science and art.

Referring to the obstacles in the way of a speedy adjustment of the race problem, he said

There are three sources of serious danger menacing the course of race adjustment and unity of interest in the general welfare The bears and bulls so to speak or extremists of depression and extremists of inflation—those who would deny the colored race all rights and privileges ignoring equity and mercy perverting law and reason, condoning violence and clearing the guilty; and those who, disregarding the consequences, would thrust into their unprepared hands and abandon to them the dangerous responsibilities of civil administration and control. But, leading the van the most dangerous of all is alcohol In nine cases out of ten and, oftentimes the tenth also whisky is the real origin of murderous brawls and disgraceful scenes of which we too often hear The low unprincipled whisky-drinking whites and blacks the vicious and turbulent in the bottom strata of both races becoming inflamed with drink do more mischief directly, in violence and outrage, and indirectly in fomenting discord exciting apprehension in arousing anger and a fierce spirit of retaliation, than all other harmful influences combined and quadrupled. One of these wretched miscreants can perpetrate more injury to both races in an hour than all the law abiding citizens can remedy in months or years of time

As regards unjust consideration of the problem, he said

Living in a white environment the negro in the United States is the subject of two quite natural but most harmful, kinds of injustice One is the habit of judging him entirely by the standard of another race, instead of by the average of his own intellectual moral and social race nature and capacity The other is impatience forgetting that we ourselves are the elaboration of some 12.0 years of experimental growth out of heathen Irish barbarism plus our superlative race genius plus the civilizing influences of ancient Egypt Greece, Arabia, Rome and of Israel culminating in Christ himself.

In conclusion he said

The future of the colored race therefore lies in the cultivated capacity and the will to fill some useful position in the walks of life. In the measure that he accomplishes this, just so and in like degree will he mount to a higher plane and obstacles yield before him, for it is this which has brought him thus far it is his only hope to bear him on and will surely sustain him As the road always opens before the traveler even around the base of a beetling crag, so will his way surely open before him as educated fitness bears him on

Dr Holt's lecture is very shortly to appear in pamphlet form

Foul tartar is disease and death
Not only to the teeth but breath
It taints the mouth and to our smile
Gives a most ghastly tinge, the while
But if we've SOZODONT close by,
We may its worst assaults defy

ANTI-BOODLE SOCIETY

Olympia Incorruptibles Organizing Against Bad Bills.

SACK HUNTERS ARE BLACKLISTED

Bonded Debt of the State Fixed at Three Hundred Thousand Dollars

A JUNKET AROUND THE TIDE LANDS

Mr Hill Declines to Work by the Day on the Code—Prison Reform and Jute Factory —Two Normal Schools.

OLYMPIA Jan 15—[Special Telegram]—An anti boodle society is the latest creation of members of the legislature A movement towards its organization has been on foot for two days but the doings of the promoters of the project have been a profound secret until this evening It leaked out through one member who had been asked to join It is to be a house society It is given out that steps towards its organization were taken at the suggestion of Cook of Clarke It is also understood that Judson of Whatcom is a prime mover in this plan Representative Shaw, of Clarke, is said to have given an impetus to the movement before the holiday adjournment He is now at home, sick Organization of the society has not yet been perfected but a caucus will be held in a few days with that object in view The object of the society is to prevent jobbery and corruption Each member will pledge himself to fight any bill that smacks of boodle and jobbery One of the promoters claims that the society will have thirty members A black list containing the names of members who are suspected of being susceptible to the influence of money has already been prepared and those whose names are down on it will not be asked to join

Speaking about the proposed society a Western Washington legislator said to night

"It is true that there is a strong movement on foot to organize an anti boodle society The story goes that several members came here and immediately began looking for a sack Other members suspect that they have found it and have pledged to deliver enough votes in the house to carry any bill in accordance with promises made by them in consideration of the boodle Those members who are forming the society object to this delivery hence their action The legislature will soon be called upon to pass upon legislation concerning corporations tide lands school lands and other important subjects, and if there is to be any bribery it will soon crop out.

Representative Judson of Pierce was asked if he had heard about the proposed society I have not been asked to join it" he said, "but to night I heard several members talking about it at the legislative headquarters I infer from that a movement is on foot"

A broad smile enveloped the face of Representative Judson of Whatcom, when he was asked what he knew of it He declared on his honor that he knew positively nothing about it

"Is it not a fact that an anti boodle society is contemplated?" he was asked.

"I don't know a damn thing about it" he answered with another broad grin

You are to be a member, are you not?"

"I don't know a damn thing about it" [Another broad grin]

"You intended to keep it quiet for a while, did you not?"

Yes that was the idea— Oh no" and he suddenly checked himself I mean to say I don't know a damn thing about it"

Judson answered all the reporter's questions with a broad grin and a stereotyped "I don't know a damn thing about it He virtually admitted during the interview that the society would be a certainty None of the suspected boodle men know anything of the proposed society to night What a howl will go up when they read of it in the papers to morrow

The mooted code question will come up in the house again to morrow Evans's joint resolution which was offered as a substitute for the Hill code bill, is a special order for 2 o clock The prospect is for a long debate on it. W Lair Hill arrived from Seattle to day and in answer to a question whether he will be willing to undertake the duties prescribed by Evans's resolution, said.

I see no reason to suppose that I will be asked to perform those duties because, first I have no qualifications therefor except such as I know to be possessed by numerous other persons, and because second, in my letter to Representative Geoghegan which I understand was read in the house I expressed my want of confidence in the practicability of the plan set forth in the resolution It goes without saying that a person having this opinion of it would be just the wrong person to undertake execution of the work but I wish distinctly to state that if that plan could be adopted I should wish it the best success, and further that I have personally not the slightest hostility to its adoption

Mr Hill added that he had never asked any one to vote for what is known as the Hill code bill and would never ask any one to do so.

Representative Grubb will introduce a bill in the house to morrow, locating a state normal school at Cheney, Spokane county provided the trustees of the Benjamin B Cheney academy located at that place, will donate the building and grounds to the state by a good title The block of ground occupied by the academy is located in the residence part of the city and it, with the building a large two story frame capable of accommodating 100 pupils, is worth at least $15 000

The senate investigating committee which visited Walla Walla penitentiary reported to day that the only thing lacking to make the prison a creditable state institution was suitable and constant employment for convicts as the practice of keeping them in close solitary confinement is cruel and debasing The committee thought the most feasible plan would be the establishment of a jute mill, as proposed by Representative Painter's bill as it offered the least interference with the occupations of the laboring man and protected farmers from being defrauded out of thousands of dollars annually by grain sack combinations The committee thought the management of the prison could be better conducted by a superintendent than a board of commissioners and recommended that a hospital be added to the prison

Senator Fairweather's bill to bond the state for $400 000 to fund the indebtedness of the territory assumed by the state was considered at length by the senate committee on revenue and taxation, and the house committee on ways and means in joint session to night On motion of Geoghegan a vote was taken and it was found to be the sense of the meeting that the issuance of bonds should not exceed $300 000 They are to be issued for five years bear not to exceed 6 per cent interest, and be redeemed at the option of the state A special levy of one-twelfth of a mill is authorized, to create a redemption fund for the bonds It was calculated that the assessment of 1890 will amount to $150 000 000, which would net $18 000 to pay the interest of the bonds which will amount to $15 000 annually Senator Fairweather will introduce his bill on the $300 000 basis to morrow.

Representative Evans has about finished his general bill for the incorporation of towns of 20 000 inhabitants and is now on the lookout for a similar bill drafted by Judge Turner, of Spokane Falls One of the chief features of Evans's bill is that which provides means of extending the city boundaries without which it is said Spokane Falls would not be able to show a population of 20 000 It provides that land contiguous to the city may become part of the city upon its being platted in conformity with the original plat of the city The point which has taken up most of Evans's time are the manner of making and collecting street assessments creation of public works and issuance of bonds for indebtedness

City Attorney Piles and Councilman Niles of Seattle, are here on instructions from Mayor Moran in the interest of a general law which will cover every conceivable subject which might be touched upon in a city charter Seattle also wants a special bill to authorize it to extend its credit It wants to issue bonds to build water works sewers and other improvements At the recent election the people authorized the council to bond the city for $1 000 000 to build water works The constitution authorizes a city to bond itself for an amount not to exceed 10 per cent of its taxable property

Senator Farris has in preparation a bill to suppress all gambling with cards or dice He says his constituents in Whitman county expect him to introduce such a bill and he is going to make it as strong and iron clad as it is possible to do

Representative Hughes's assessment bill introduced to day is the longest bill before the legislature It contains 153 sections, or about 28 000 words The bill is based upon the laws of Minnesota and Illinois It provides primarily that all property shall be assessed by description in alphabetical order and that where the owner cannot readily be found it shall be assessed to unknown owners Exemptions are made for public schools, academies, etc with furniture and grounds attached and houses used exclusively for public worship and the lots upon which the building is located in the amount of $3000 and no more, cemeteries property of the government county buildings and grounds and all buildings used for the support of the poor charitable institutions lands of agricultural societies not exceeding eighty acres fire apparatus and buildings, public market houses and squares public libraries and $100 worth of personal property of each individual The assessment of real estate shall be made every two years in even numbered years and of personal property every year An innovation is found in the provision to assess public lands after final proof and before the patent is issued to the occupant A poll tax of $2 is imposed upon all males between 21 and 50 years of age County treasurers are made collectors of taxes as under the present law The county commissioners and auditors constitute the board of equalization The secretary of state, auditor and land commissioner comprise the state board of equalization Assessments shall be made between April 1 and June 30 and taxes become delinquent on December 31 of each year The pay of assessors shall be $5 for each day's work as at present but the counties may fix salaries The law will go into effect January 1 1891

The house to day passed the bill establishing a state normal school at Lynden Hutchinson's amendment that the location be left to the commission to be appointed to select a site for the state agricultural college was voted down The bill originally asked for 50 000 acres of land and $6000 to run the school the first year, but these provisions were stricken out The people of Lynden donate twenty acres for a site agree to erect a $6000 building and support the school for one year Representatives Judson and Moultray of Whatcom worked hard for the bill

Hunsaker's horticultural bill creates a state board of horticulture of three members, one from each of three horticultural districts The first district comprises the counties of Asotin, Columbia, Garfield Whitman, Spokane, Stevens, Lincoln Franklin Adams, Walla Walla Douglas and Okanogan; the second Kittitas, Yakima Klickitat, Skamania Clarke Cowlitz Wahkiakum Pacific and Lewis the third, Chehalis, Thurston Pierce, King, Kitsap Mason, Jefferson Clallam Snohomish, Island Skagit, Whatcom and San Juan. The duties of the board are to arrange for lectures on practical horticulture and orchard culture, to publish information, to appoint an inspector of fruit pests" to make regulations for destroying noxious insects and prosecute persons for disregarding such regulations Two thousand dollars is appropriated for the use of this board

Seaborg's fishery bill was taken up in the senate to day, and the sturdy old cannery man made his maiden speech on this bill He said that the Oregon legislature had passed a similar law last winter, but Governor Pennoyer had vetoed it He believed it was a good law and that Oregon would pass one like it next winter and he also believed that Governor Pennoyer would not be there to veto it There had been considerable trouble between Oregon and Washington fishermen and he thought this bill would meet all the requirements The bill was passed unanimously

The tide lands committees of the house and senate met to-night and agreed to leave Saturday on a tour of inspection of the tide lands Senator Hunsaker and Representative Browne of Pierce were appointed a sub committee to charter boats for the trip The committees will go from here to Aberdeen and spend Sunday along Gray's harbor They will spend Tuesday in Tacoma, Wednesday in Seattle, Thursday on Bellingham bay and intermediate points, Saturday at Port Townsend and Sunday at Port Gamble Port Ludlow and Port Blakeley and return to Olympia on Monday January 27.

A bill was introduced by Long in the senate to-day to provide for construction and protection of drains and ditches for agricultural sanitary and domestic purposes It authorizes county commissioners to cause to be located and constructed straightened widened or deepened, any ditch, drain or water course when the same is necessary to drain any lots or public or corporate roads or railroad and will be conducive to the public health or convenience The word "ditch" shall be held to include drain or water course Application for any such improvement shall be made to the commissioners by petition signed by one or more owners of the lots or land which will be drained or benefited thereby The petition must set forth the necessity of such improvement and must be accompanied by a bond conditioned for the payment of all costs if the prayer is not granted The bill goes on to provide for surveys of proposed drains and assessment of costs, and provides that the county board may appoint one or more persons as ditch commissioners who shall serve under their directions

AFRO-AMERICAN CONVENTION.

Fortune, the Democratic Politician, Is Guide—Real Leaders Absent.

CHICAGO, Jan 15—The national convention of the Free American League was called to order this morning with delegates present from twenty one states and the District of Columbia. T T Fortune, editor of the Age New York was chosen temporary chairman The remainder of the session was given to the appointment of standing committees

In the afternoon Mr Thomas Fortune addressed the meeting. He said in part.

We are met here to-day to emphasize the fact that the past condition of dependence and helplessness upon men who have used us or selfish and unholy purposes—who have murdered and robbed and outraged us—must be revoked. We have been robbed of the honest wages of our toil we have been robbed of the substance of our citizenship by murder and intimidation, we have been outraged by our enemies and deserted by our friends It is time to call a halt It is time to begin to fight fire with fire I speak as an Afro American first, last and all the time ready to stab to death any political party which robs me of my confidence and vote and straightway asks me what I am going to do about it.

In conclusion Fortune urged the convention to leave each local league free to pursue such a political course in its immediate community as the best interests of the race seem to dictate in national affairs The league should not commit itself officially to any party

We propose to accomplish our purposes by peaceful methods of agitation through the ballot and the courts, but if others use weapons of violence to combat our peaceful argument it is not for us to run away What is worth having is worth fighting for

A committee on organization was appointed and an adjournment taken until to morrow

C H J Taylor, ex minister to Liberia, who came to Chicago to report the convention for several Southern papers left the city to night. In an interview he declared that the proceedings were deprived of any practical force by the absence of delegates from the South, where the colored people were most vitally interested in the race question In addition, the leaders in whom the colored population had confidence, whose names are familiar to the public were absent almost to a man Taylor said he had written nothing about the convention, but the occasion did not demand it

A STEAMER CLAD IN ICE.

Unable to Proceed for the Heavy Weight—Mountainous Seas

NEW YORK Jan 15—The steamship Rugia arrived from Hamburg last night seven days overdue Chief Officer Solerhoff said to day

We did not have twelve hours' pleasant weather on the entire voyage I have been an officer on transatlantic vessels eight years and this was the most severe voyage I ever had As soon as we got out of Havre the storm commenced and the wind howled like a demon On the 10th and 11th the mercury registered 17 deg below zero A gale from the west held us almost stationary in the heavy sea and ice formed on the rigging faster than we could chop it away For two days the entire crew were kept busy chopping away the ice, which fell on the decks by the ton A half inch rope would be six inches in diameter and positively useless

The waves were higher than I have ever seen and on the 10th the cannon we used to fire salutes with was washed overboard Several of the sailors were thrown about so violently that they were disabled, and consequently we became short handed The boat then ran short and we had to put into Halifax. This consumed two days and two days more were taken up by a complete standstill in the ocean, when it became simply out of the question to proceed further with ice clinging to the ship It could not have been less than 100 tons and as the sailors chopped it away it fell on the deck like heavy bowlders.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

LAW MIGHTIER THAN PARTY

Helena Journal Two more democratic senators answered to roll call yesterday but refused or neglected to vote upon any of the questions put They have taken one proper step, only go just a little further—enter into the business which they were sent to do, serve the people as the oath prescribes, and the trouble will be over Let them no longer shut their eyes to the fact that law is mightier than party and they will receive the thanks of a people who need earnest work from the men sent here to represent them

THE SOUTH NEEDS PROTECTION

Boston Journal Those politicians who are depending upon Southern votes to assist Tammany in bringing about free trade in congress should remember that nearly one-third of the blast furnaces of the country are in the Southern states and that the number of employes in the manufacturing establishments of the South has increased 122 per cent. within a decade The old threadbare Bourbon argument that the protective tariff benefited only the mudsill mechanics of the North is beginning to lose its effectiveness.

THE GRANGER THREAT RENEWED

Benton Leader (Dem.) The people will be found wide awake at the approaching election Everywhere are republicans indorsing the administration of Governor Pennoyer, and he will be found invincible with the public. The Portland ringsters were a little too bold in the last legislature and the grangers are aroused Let the democracy renominate Pennoyer by acclamation and go before the people with the cut issue of an honest administration aggressively in the people's interest

PLEADING FOR OPEN SESSIONS

St Paul Globe Senator Teller is performing a most praiseworthy service in perpetually nagging the senate on its refusal to abolish executive sessions Mr Teller has a resolution pending before that body proposing a change in the rules, so as to consider executive nominations in open session He hasn't been able to get a consideration of the resolution but it is observable that every time he calls it up the proposed reform has shown greater strength.

ONE HONEST DEMOCRAT

New York Sun The assertion of Mr Cleveland in his Boston speech that our elections at this period are distinguished for corruption was entirely without justification They are pure and honest, and the votes counted record the actual political convictions of the citizens. The cry that the last election for president was carried by bribery was the merest rubbish. Mr Harrison was elected because the people preferred him to Mr. Cleveland

A DEMOCRATIC GRUMBLER

Jacksonville Times The president has appointed Franklin Pierce Mays, of The Dalles, as United States district attorney for Oregon He was once a democrat, but changed his politics early in life His appointment is not well received as he is quite unpopular even at home. Mays has long sought political preferment and has some ability, though he cannot compare with his predecessor, Judge McArthur, in any respect.

A GRIP ON PERPETUITY

Davenport (Ia.) Democrat Gazette "The Australian ballot system will be in force long after the course of events has retired its present opponents from the scene of action It has a grip on perpetuity" So says an Ohio republican exchange. That sums up the Iowa situation perfectly The Australian ballot is coming and its opponents are going The distance between them will keep on growing larger

A WESTERN DEMOCRAT FOR '92.

Denver Republican Eugene Higgins, the famous patronage dispenser of the Cleveland administration, does not think that either Cleveland or Hill will be the next democratic presidential candidate, but that a Western man will be taken up Concerning Cleveland's defeat, Mr. Higgins thinks that had Dan Manning lived he would have been the nominee of the party, and not Cleveland.

BRICE BUYS HIS WAY

Pendleton Tribune The candidates for the senate who represented the better element were equally as ambitious as Mr Brice, but their purses were not as long as that which hung suspended from his girdle Every time his hand dipped into it a legislator was made glad with good hard coin. Brice's opponents labored with philosophy and wisdom Brice bartered these off for gold Brice got there

POLITICAL KNIFING MATCH.

Seattle Press Hyde rejoiced merrily over Turner's defeat for the senatorship, and it is believed that Turner is not now shedding any tears over Hyde's failure to get the judgeship. The Spokane statesmen cheerfully knife one another, and the official plums fall in other places than Spokane

THEY GRIN AND BEAR IT.

Roseburg Plaindealer The republicans of Southern Oregon accept the situation with regard to the late federal appointments with becoming grace, but they are like the man who ate crow for dinner, "It was tolerable fair crow but I do not relish it as well as turkey."

Building in New York and Brooklyn.

New York Press.

New York issued 4385 building permits during 1889 Brooklyn issued 5084. Of New York's 2142 were for flat and tenement houses leaving 2243 of other kinds Of Brooklyn's 1153 were for flat and tenement houses, leaving 3931 of other kinds These figures tell a very plain story as to the gain Brooklyn is making at the expense of New York, because of the former's yearly extensions of the rapid transit system in every direction from the bridge and our own lack of real rapid transit.

How a Charming Lady Allowed a Fatal Trouble to Come Upon Her Unawares.

"Nearly every one of my friends has a cold"

This remark was made to a party of friends by an attractive lady who resides on 44th-st., New York. That evening she felt a tickling in her throat a slight pain across the chest, and she coughed once or twice. The next day she was tired and despondent and had much difficulty in breathing To day she is suffering from quick consumption, and can live, it is feared, only a short time. Her experience is a sad one, but, unfortunately it is the same that thousands of others are passing through Such troubles should not be neglected.

Nature needs help It MUST be helped, and that promptly In but one way can this be done, and that is by the use of a pure stimulant, which drives out the germs of disease before they can become fixed upon the system. This is what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey does It is a stimulant to the organs that have been congested by cold It arouses the tissues to fresh action It wards off disease and containing no fusel oil, does not injure It is used by the leading people of the land. A prominent lady writing on this subject says. "I have watched the faces of ladies very carefully for many years, and on nearly every one have seen either lines of care, or unhappiness, swollen eyelids, dark lines around them, or some equally certain evidence of ill-health and unhappiness I am a firm advocate of temperance; but I believe ladies should take some good tonic or stimulant, and something, too that is known to be pure and reliable. I have tried Duffy's Malt, and have been benefitted by it and while I do not advocate its use by all I think very many women could be made healthier, happier and more attractive to their husbands lovers friends, and families if they would do likewise."

"It Disagrees with Me."

A common remark. If you take Tutt's Pills you can eat anything you like, and feel no bad effects. They act specifically on the liver, stomach and bowels, causing a free flow of gastric juice, which is essential to good digestion and regular bowels.

Don't Fear Now.

Rev. E. Burts, Manata, Fla., says: "Tutt's Pills are held in high repute as a Liver Regulator. I hardly know how we could get along without them. Chills and fever have lost their dread. Our people take one or two doses of the Pills, and follow it with fifteen grains of quinine, divided in three doses during the day. The chill never returns."

GREAT THEATRICAL EVENT.

A Season of Grand Opera by America's Leading Company.

The Marquam Grand Opera House to Be Opened February 3, by the Emma Juch Grand English Opera Company.

Mr. Al Hayman arrived in the city yesterday from San Francisco, after having been detained three days on the journey on account of an accident on the Southern Pacific near Sissons.

Mr. Hayman states that the inaugural performance at the Marquam Grand opera house will positively take place on the night of Monday, February 3, the attraction being the Emma Juch Grand English Opera Company. The strength of the list of principal singers comprising this organization will be seen from the following names

Sopranos—Emma Juch, Georgine Von Janus chowsky, Susie Leonhardt, Marie Freebert
Contraltos—Lizzie Macnichol, Fanny Gonzales, Carrie Morse.
Tenors—Charles Hedmondt, Charles Turner, Frank Pieri Elvin Singer
Baritones Giovanni Tagliapietra, William Lee, William Bott.
Basses—Franz Vetta, T S. Guise, E. N Knight.
The repertoire for the week will consist of the following operas Monday, February 3, "Faust", Tuesday, February 4, "The Postillion of Lonjumeau," (the first production in Portland). Wednesday, February 5, "Mignon", Thursday, February 6, "Il Trovatore"; Friday, February 7, "Carmen", Saturday matinee February 8, "Maritana"; Saturday night, "Der Freischutz," (its first production in Portland)

This is an array of operatic attractions such as Portland has never yet enjoyed, and its inauguration will mark an epoch in theatrical affairs in this city The Emma Juch Opera Company of 112 people, including a chorus of fifty voices and their own orchestra of thirty pieces, under the direction of Mr Adolf Neuendorff, will travel from San Francisco in their own special train.

The prices during the opera season will be the same as charged by this organization in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and San Francisco, namely, 50 cents, $1, $1 50 and $2, according to the location of seats, with the exception of the opening night, when Mr Hayman, desiring that the people should have an opportunity of testifying their appreciation of an event of such great interest to amusement goers as the opening of a new and elegant theater, has decided to offer the choice of seats and boxes at public auction, of which full particulars as to date of sale will be given later on There has been such a demand for seats from various quarters, and Mr Hayman has been importuned especially by his friends, for a reserve of seats that he thinks it advisable in order to give all who wish a chance to bid for seats, to adopt the auction plan for the first night

This is not done as a financial move at all, but to gain the sense of the people of Portland He desires to see what class and what numbers of people there are in Portland who will support him in bringing the great artists of the world to this city, and the degree of eagerness and enthusiasm manifested on this first night of a notable opera season will enable him, in a measure, to judge whether he would be justified in bringing such celebrated artists as Patti and Bernhardt to Portland.

There is no doubt, in the opinion of THE OREGONIAN, that the people will liberally support a first-class theater with first-class attractions, and, if Mr Hayman will introduce the class of attractions he promises, there can be no question as to the result

"HARBOR LIGHTS"

The Next Attraction at New Park Theater—Press Opinion.

The next attraction at this house will be the Grand Opera House Company in "Harbor Lights," a strong melodrama full of action and scenic effects The following is from the San Francisco Call of the 7th

There was a large attendance at the Grand Opera House last evening to enjoy the active melodrama of "Harbor Lights"—active because it is replete with movement from beginning to end. The piece was nicely mounted, the scenic artist, Mr Wilkins, did it and himself justice. "Redcliff-by-the-Sea," on which the curtain rises in the first act, was a pretty bit of marine painting—a sort of Stanfield in the rough, and there were some elaborate interiors in the acts that followed—Moreland Hall particularly The managers of the Grand are to be credited with providing nice pictorial effects for their productions. As for this all alive play it is of the same class that is educating the old ones of to-day—a dramatization of the agony and criminal record columns of the daily and weekly newspapers David Kingsley (Mr William Morris) is a manly young lieutenant of H B M S Britannic and he loves Dora Vane (Miss Isabel Morris) and is loved by her in return The villain of the piece is Frank Moreland (Edwin J. Henley) the lord of Redcliffe-by-the-Sea and who appears to have no other purpose in life than debauching female virtue and endeavoring to prevent the fulfillment of honorable matrimonial contracts by impairing public confidence in the integrity of the party of the second part He has already married Lina Nelson (Miss Mary Hampton), and is trying the same devilish game with Dora Vane, but Lieutenant Kingsley catches him at his tricks and knocks the villain out in the first round Mark Helstone (Mr. George Osbourne), who loves Lina Nelson the ruined girl, follows up Kingsley's action by putting a bullet into Moreland who falls on the floor of his own hall On these characters depend the whole action of the piece and the brief abstract given shows how lively the actors must be.

"THE STREETS OF NEW YORK."

Cordray's musee-theater still maintains its reputation for good houses, and the familiar melodrama, "The Streets of New York" is running smoothly and drawing to the full capacity of the theater It will continue for the remainder of the week.

The Phoites in the musee nightly amuse the audiences with their funny pantomime

SUMMARY OF SHIPPING MOVEMENTS

What a Number of Vessels Are Doing—Soon to Leave—Raising the Clan Mackenzie.

Captain Simpson, of the Clan Mackenzie, and Mr. Whitelaw, the wrecker, arrived from the scene of the wreck yesterday The report to the effect that the ship was afloat or that it has been afloat is denied The work on the bulkhead which covers the hole made by the Oregon has been completed, and the big pumps on the wrecking steamer will soon be in readiness to pump the water from the sunken vessel One of the pumps was tried last Tuesday and it succeeded in throwing out twenty-eight tons of water a minute, while the leakage in the same time is but fourteen tons Other pumps are to be placed in position, when it is expected that water will be thrown out at the rate of fifty tons per minute With the leakage little more than one fourth of that amount it can be seen that when the pumps once get down to business it will not be long before the ship will be afloat While one of the divers was at work removing ballast from the hold of the vessel, in order to allow the pump's suction to sink down further his hands were frozen and the man was forced to return to the city for treatment. The water is said to be bitter cold and it is with difficulty that the divers proceed with their work

The lower Columbia is free enough from ice to render it feasible for the ships at Astoria to be brought up and Captain Troup has accordingly detailed a steamer to tow up the English bark Lorton, which arrived a few days since off the mouth of the Columbia Another steamer will leave to-day for Astoria, having in tow the English bark Arthurstone This vessel was ready for sea a few days before the freeze up but the captain deferred going one day too long and unfortunately for him no steamer could be had that would risk towing through the ice in the Columbia

The steamship Santa Rosa was due here Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock, but did not arrive at her dock until 12 M yesterday Captain Goce reports an unpleasant trip from San Francisco having encountered head winds all the way The vessel had aboard 800 tons of general merchandise and a few passengers It was just forty nine hours from the time she left San Francisco until Astoria was reached.

Four of the ships now in port are soon to bid good bye to Portland harbor Captain Thompson, of the American ship Challenger expects to be able to leave for Astoria to-morrow His vessel is loaded to draw nine feet and a half feet of water The Challenger has a cargo of wheat, and will sail to Cork for orders Captain Chapman of the Alameda, will try to get away either by the last of this month or the first of next The English iron ship Orpheus is still lying at the flouring mills below Albina taking on a cargo of the staple article Captain Young was intending to finish loading to day, but he is afraid he cannot do it and he will probably be delayed two or three days further The Orpheus will also leave for Astoria drawing nineteen and a half feet of water.

The disappearance of the ice in the Willamette has once more caused freight to roll into the south end steamer docks The Oregon Pacific boats are again making their regular runs as far up the Willamette as Corvallis For the present, the steamers Joseph Kellogg and Northwest will remain, tied up at their docks near the foot of Yamhill street while the steamer Toledo belonging to the same company will continue the run as far down the river as St. Helens stopping at way points in Willamette slough until the broken ice in the Columbia is entirely gone The Union Pacific's upper Willamette steamers will also run on schedule time.

The new Stark-street ferry recently launched from the Willamette Ship Building Company's yard, was inspected by the United States local inspectors yesterday, and granted a license The new one is considerably smaller than the one now in use but it will do the business satisfactorily It now lies at Johnson's wharf on the East Side Just when it will be put into use has not been decided

While the cold weather on the lower Columbia is steadily relenting the freeze-up on the middle river as steadily continues, and not the least disposition for a break-up is manifest. Reports indicate the ice in the river freezing harder and thicker with each night, and an open river for some time is not expected by river men

WHAT HAS BECOME OF THE SON?

Arrangements for the Funeral of Mrs McGuinthie Deferred Until He Can Be Heard From

Coroner DeLin stated yesterday that no inquest would be held on the remains of Mrs. McGuinthie, the old lady who was found dead in her room on North Fifth street Tuesday evening

I have consulted with the physician, said he, and he gives it as his opinion that death resulted from natural causes. The old lady was well along in years, and it was simply a case of the spark of life flickering out We have made no arrangements for the funeral yet, as we are trying to find her son, who disappeared only a day before the old lady died She had some money which he is supposed to have taken also a certificate of deposit for about $450 on one of the Portland banks Mrs. McGuinthie was telling some of her neighbors the day before she died that she wanted several things but would have to defer buying them until her son returned as he had all of her money This son has not returned and it is believed that he has gone to California. Inquiry at the Ainsworth National bank elicited the fact that young McGuinthie accompanied by another who desired to identify him, called with the certificate of deposit last Monday The money however was refused him as the deposit was so made that no one but Mrs McGuinthie, and she not until after her husband's death, could draw it.

Old Mr McGuinthie is at St Vincent's hospital, very weak from the effects of a surgical operation recently performed and is not expected to live

BUT FEW LILIES WILL BE IN BLOOM

And the Year Promises Not to Be Very Prosperous to John

The sight of Chinese lilies growing green in all parts of Chinatown and big Shaddocks in every shop window there is evidence that the Chinese New Year is at hand The great desire of every Chinaman is to have a fine lot of lilies in bloom at New Year's, as that is a sign he will have a prosperous year Owing to the cold weather of the past weeks, there will be very few lilies in bloom for this New Year and consequently orthodox superstitious Chinamen will look forward to hard times and the passage of the bill introduced in congress by Senator Mitchell excluding the already excluded Chinese

The many friends of Mrs. Fr[illegible] will be sorry to learn that she is lying very ill at her residence No 153 South Second street

Superintendent Hall of the Northern Pacific is in no wise alarmed at the report of $[illegible] shortage in Skuggs's account He says there are generally some mistakes and irregularities which a man could explain if present

At the next meeting of the Oregon Alpine Club will be read a number of letters bearing on the enforcement of the game laws in the coast counties. A talk will also be given on the most feasible trail for exploring the Olympic range

A telegram from Seattle states that the quarters engaged for the Northern Pacific Express Company there at a rental of $300 a month cannot now be had This is the building rented for temporary quarters, not the one under course of construction upon which superintendent Hall has a lease.

Yesterday afternoon 14 2 10 acres of land on the base line beyond St Mary's cemetery belonging to the estate of the late Mayor John Gates was sold for $29 000 to David Goodsell J S Buchtel and W H Mall The piece has been known as the Gates tract, and will probably be cut up into lots at some $500 or more each

Doubtless a very anxious subscriber writing from East Portland propounds the following conundrum In reference to an article in this morning's OREGONIAN about Policeman Cox and a sack of rats in a saloon yesterday Knowing that all laws are enforced in this beautiful state of Oregon I write to inquire what Policeman Cox, rats sacks and men were doing in a saloon on Sunday?

MATTERS ON THE EAST SIDE.

Mr B F Durphy Interviewed at Some Length by a Reporter.

He Says Positively That the Factory Will Be Rebuilt and the Debts Paid in Full—Other Notes

On the night of the fire that destroyed the Oregon shoe factory building at Sunnyside and several times since, Mr B F Durphy the superintendent, made the positive statement that the factory would be rebuilt as soon as matters could be adjusted Since the fire, suits for the recovery of various sums—claims against the factory company—have been commenced aggregating from $1600 to $2000 It was also reported that the men in the employ of the company are unable to secure wages due them for work done in the factory before the building burned, and, also that several desired to go to San Francisco, but are unable to do so for the reason they can not get their money

These reports and other matters have caused doubts as to whether the factory would be rebuilt. In order to find out what Mr Durphy had to say regarding the situation he was interviewed yesterday morning He was met as he was returning from Portland on his way to Sunnyside, and spoke with perfect frankness and freedom He said

Yes, they are after me yet. I am perfectly familiar with the reports that have been put in circulation relating to the factory, but they are ridiculous fabrications. The factory will be rebuilt notwithstanding the opposition What do you think? It was reported at Sunnyside a few days ago that Durphy had collected the insurance and then taken his wife and left All such fabrications, of course, have been started for malicious purposes, and it must be apparent to anyone with ordinary intelligence are without foundation. The insurance has not been adjusted The companies have sixty days in which to do this and they generally take that time I have been endeavoring to obtain the privilege of getting the foundation of the new building in shape in advance of the adjustment

How about the claims that stand against the company and are now in the courts for collection?

Every claim will be paid 100 cents on the dollar The company has ample resources at command to do this These claims do not aggregate more than $2000 The company has $7000 worth of real estate, besides the insurance on the building is $10,000 which makes $17,000 Without this, the company could pay its debts We do not owe our men more than $50 all told Before Christmas most of them drew their money I am to day paying the board and half salaries of a large number of the men who worked in the factory before the fire and whose services I wish to retain when the factory shall have been rebuilt I would not be so foolish as to do this if I did not intend to rebuild Regarding the men who wanted to go to San Francisco I arranged to secure them tickets but they changed their minds and did not go All the claims will be settled in full, as soon as certain matters have been adjusted. It takes some little time to get matters in running shape and insurance companies cannot be hurried

BRIDGE APPROACH

A plan for the approach to the Hawthorne avenue bridge has been prepared by Jos Paquet which may meet the approval of the council and enable the company to build a double-deck bridge The full particulars of the new plan cannot be described here, but it may be said that it is proposed to commence the approach at Third street and not at Fourth as was at first intended At Third street there will be an incline containing one track, which incline will widen to thirty six feet the width of the street between the sidewalks Where this roadway crosses the intersection of Second First and Water streets these intersections will be bridged by a single span The timbers supporting this approach will be along the sidewalk on either side of the street and in the middle. This will give under the approach two fourteen foot roadways in the clear

The former plan was to build an approach eighteen feet wide in the center of the street and thus leave but two nine-foot roadways underneath, and to this property holders objected

If a roadway thirty six feet wide should be constructed above the Fourth street roadway from N to Q streets you would have the proposed approach illustrated There will be no floor on the approach, and the light of the buildings along the street will not be obstructed Those having two-story houses could construct passage ways to the elevated approach and reach the cars in that way

However the main advantages of the plan are that the intersections are spanned with a truss and not obstructed and there is ample room for teams underneath

SAD AND SUDDEN DEATH

Tuesday morning a man named Davis employed by Mr A G Ryan for several months past died after a short illness The suddenness of the death and the surrounding circumstances attached more than ordinary interest to the matter and yesterday Mr Ryan was interviewed and he stated that Davis had been at work for him for about five months and at the time of his death was residing on the Irving tract northeast of the city He had been feeling unwell for some time and had been under treatment but was not down sick until a few days ago, when a physician from Albina was called who left a prescription which was administered several times The man grew worse and Mr Ryan had Dr D Rafferty see him When this physician saw the man he gave it as his opinion that he was under the influence of morphine Dr Rafferty was seen yesterday evening and stated that when he arrived at the man's house he found him in a bad condition and advised that he be removed to a hospital at once The man was writhing and twisting and his eyes were rolling in a horrible manner Dr Rafferty left no medicine for the man, but advised that the prescription that had been given be discontinued The man died at 2 o clock Tuesday morning and was buried yesterday He leaves a wife and child

BETRAYING PUBLIC CONFIDENCE.

The Pacific Coast has long been a pigeon roost or quacks with Portland its very center Both men and women, who never studied medicine or saw with a medical college have located here glaringly and boastfully advertised to cure any and all diseases on sight They attracted attention secured patients from far and near and ruthlessly fleeced them and then gave them no value received even in benefit, much less a cure Such low contemptible unscrupulous charlatans to set themselves up as doctors is a betrayal of public confidence and an ignominious dis, see upon the medical profession No man or woman should be allowed to practice medicine or surgery in any state or territory without first passing a highly satisfactory examination before a board composed of thorough medical men, diploma or no diploma. Nothing of disrepute should attach to the physician and surgeon because he advertises if he possesses the experience and ability to fulfill his advertising, and he can and does cure all of the diseases he advertises to cure. It is professional skill that the people are looking for, and in time will tell—not wind. Why take treatment month out and month in of a man simply because he advertises as a "doctor," when you know that he is not benefiting you? He gets your money and then skips the town between two days. Such is the way of the quack and there is no difference between him and the highway robber, who fells his victim with one blow rob his person and leaves him unconscious upon the roadside only one is criminal and the other professional?

Dr Alfred L Cole head physician and chief surgeon Portland Surgical and Medical Dispensary is permanently located in this city and has large property interests in Portland and other cities on the east and Sound He is a graduate of the leading medical college of New York city and his genuine diploma hangs on the wall of his operating room His hair has grown white in the many years of close study deep research and extensive practice among diseases and their specific treatment He is an eminent physician and skillful surgeon and his ability is only measured by his guarantee to cure any case curable by any member of the profession, excepting none. Personally he is in every way responsible and he will not take your money unless he can benefit or cure you As to the methods and means of treatment employed by him they are the latest known to the advanced science of his profession of all countries, and he does not desire to hypothecate any new discoveries upon the people to prey upon their credulity If you are suffering from any physical trouble or disease no matter how long you have doctored or what physicians have treated you and you are not cured, and you know it, don't conclude that your case is incurable but go and see this eminent physician He makes a specialty of all chronic cases given up by other physicians, and he will make the terms of treatment to suit your circumstances. If you have been tampered with by unscrupulous doctors in the past, and you are dubious call or write for testimonials of positive cures of patients in Portland and from all over the Coast, of almost every disease. It will cost you nothing to consult him at his dispensary, 132 and 134 Third street corner Alder or by mail if you cannot visit the city
